

'Non-Committal' Kissinger Returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger is back in the United States after a unique two-day meeting with top North Vietnamese negotiators, a meeting the White House denies produced a settlement of the war.

What, if anything, came from the Paris sessions remains a secret held by a handful of administration officials.

Kissinger talked to President Nixon by telephone Wednesday night after his return to Washington and will provide a complete report at the White House tonight after the chief executive returns from a campaign trip to California.

The President's chief foreign-policy advisor emerged from his Air Force plane smiling and looking relaxed, but he refused to meet with waiting reporters about his talks with Le Duc Tho and Xuan Thuy.

"I can't say anything," Kissinger shouted to newsmen who implored him to stay a while after his jet touched down on a rain-slicked runway at Andrews Air Force Base.

What the reporters wanted to ask about specifically was a report that an agreement had been reached to create a three-segment neutral regime in Saigon with a cease-fire going into effect in October.

Although Kissinger wouldn't discuss the meeting—his 18th secret session and the only one to last more than a day—White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said in California the report of an accord had "no substance."

Substantive or not, the story originated by RKO broadcast

White House correspondent Clifford Evans had a major effect on the New York stock market in late trading Wednesday.

Speculators operating on the basis of the Evans story and other subsequently denied rumors sent the Dow Jones average climbing more than 10 points.

Although the market rally moved primarily on the basis of these officially denied reports, confusion caused by the immediate refusal of the White House to comment plus speculation by other administration officials also played a part.

When asked about the Evans story, Ziegler originally said only that "I cannot comment at all on the substance of the discussions." Kissinger had with the North Vietnamese.

Another building block in the speculation was the statement Ziegler made Tuesday when he disclosed Kissinger was staying in Paris an extra day.

He pointed out to reporters that Kissinger had said Sept. 16, one day following his last secret discussion with Tho, "the fact that these talks are going on would indicate a certain seriousness."

In addition, State Department sources who normally refuse to discuss any aspect of the Kissinger-Tho meetings said the extension of the latest session was an interesting and possibly significant development.

The last new ingredient in the negotiations was a statement issued earlier this month by the Viet Cong and claimed as a different proposal on setting up a postwar government in South Vietnam.

The proposal called for a three-party regime; one segment picked by some officials of the current government, but excluding President Nguyen Van Thieu; a second part selected by the Viet Cong and the third comprised of neutral elements.

Kissinger on Sept. 16 said this approach "leaves something to be desired." Previously, American spokesmen had been much sharper in rejecting similar approaches, saying the United States would not take part in dumping the Thieu government.

Another part of the far-from-complete puzzle concerning the real status of the negotiations was statements last month by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Republican congressional leaders that a settlement could be reached before or just after the November presidential election.

This was later described by the administration as a hope rather than a prediction, but the statements plus the latest round of Paris talks with their accompanying reports and reactions have done nothing to smother the speculation that something is in the works.

Nixon Promises If Reelected: 'Four of Best Years in History'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Nixon, expanding on his 1972 campaign slogan of "Four More Years," says his re-election would mean "four of the best years in the whole history of the United States."

Addressing a $1,000-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner here Wednesday night, Nixon spoke of his initiatives toward Moscow and Peking, but declined:

"We need four more years to build on this beginning. Then, talking about law and order and his effort to end what he terms permissiveness by the courts, he said: "Four years isn't enough. We need more."

Summing up his pitch for what he has described as "a clear majority," he cited three goals for his hoped-for four more years:

—Peace in the world.

—"Opportunity and jobs for all Americans."

—To instill in all citizens a firm conviction that "this is a great and good, and indeed, a beautiful country."

As Nixon spoke, a dwindling but noisy group of dissenters—the White House described them as the forces of the President's Democratic opponent, George McGovern—demonstrated outside the Century Plaza Hotel.

At one point, police estimated the demonstrators numbered more than 3,000 but their ranks thinned as the evening wore on. Only occasionally did they stray from their role as professional protesters, once when some tried to storm the lobby.

Los Angeles police in riot gear moved in quickly whenever they got a hint of possible violence but quickly withdrew when nothing serious occurred.

Inside the Century Plaza, busloads of young Republicans had their own party and, at one point, were allowed to leave by the rear of the hotel to gather in the lobby behind ropes and stanchions.

In his Los Angeles speech, Nixon renewed a pledge that he would seek to avoid tax increases in a second term while trying to stamp out inflation.

Looking to the weeks just ahead, and referring presumably to measures that might emerge from the current Democratic-controlled Congress, the President said:

"I intend ... to approve no bills that would lead to a tax increase for the American people."

He promised he would "find it necessary to veto some huge spending bills."

McGovern has been trying to goad Nixon into more frequent public appearances, arguing that major campaign issues are not being clearly defined by the opposing major candidates.

Arriving in California in search of its 45 electoral votes, Nixon said Wednesday he must be in Washington much of the time so he can ward off potential tax-cutting programs of the Congress.

"I would welcome the opportunity to take the case for this administration directly to the American people," said Nixon.

"But my first responsibility is to do my job as President of the United States ..."

In one of two statements issued in his home state, Nixon said:

"I shall make no promises in this campaign for any new spending program—no matter how popular—if such programs would lead to a tax increase."

Just before his scheduled return to Washington, Nixon went to a hotel in downtown Los Angeles to receive an award at a National Cancer Conference.

Both Paris Delegations Deny Rumors of Truce

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam and the Viet Cong today branded as "not true" rumors in the middle of the U.S. election campaign that the Vietnam War is on the edge of being settled.

The Communist delegations to the 16th plenary session of the Paris Conference on Vietnam said peace negotiations were deadlocked because the United States still refused their demands to overthrow the present Saigon regime and install a coalition government as preconditions for a cease-fire.

Xuan Thuy, chief of the North Vietnam delegation, told newsmen that reports he and U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger had agreed on a cease-fire during their secret talks Tuesday and Wednesday in Paris were "speculation without foundation and contrary to the truth."

Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh, chief negotiator for the Viet Cong, firmly told reporters outside the International Conference Hall on Avenue Kleber that "all these rumors are designed to deceive American and world opinion."

"Rumors circulate that a cease-fire is on the point of being concluded," said Mme. Binh, dressed in her traditional Vietnamese long gown. "How can one arrive at such a result while the American extermination bombings are continuing and Washington still opposes discussing the legitimate demands" of the Viet Cong peace proposals?

Meanwhile, in Vietnam, Communist troops fired more than 1,000 shells into a South Vietnamese base on the central coast and launched ground assaults that government rangers stopped at the camp's barbed-wire perimeter, field reports said today.

Six other outposts elsewhere in Quang Ngai province also came under fire during the night and military sources said "fighting is very, very hard" in the area 300 miles northeast of Saigon.

Waves of F4 Phantom jets Wednesday smashed a military supply area 84 miles northwest of Hanoi and destroyed or damaged 30 to 40 storage buildings, spokesmen said. They said many "were engulfed in flames."

Two Navy fliers scheduled to testify in unauthorized bombing investigation. Story on Page 32.

Less than seven miles from Saigon Wednesday, South Vietnamese troops fought a four-hour battle with Communist soldiers who have been trying to position themselves for an attack on the capital, spokesmen said. They said eight or 10 were wounded.

killed or missing and 11 were wounded in the fight 5½ miles southeast of Nhon Trach.

UPI reporter Edward Bassett said North Vietnamese gunners Wednesday night fired the 1,000-round mortar barrage on rangers positions inside a former U.S. Special Forces camp 10 miles from Quang Ngai City at Ba To district town. Bassett said the rangers repulsed a ground attack that followed. Initial reports said 35 Communist troops were known dead as the South Vietnamese pushed the Communists back to the camp's perimeter. Field officers said government losses were four killed and 13 wounded.

Only one American was reported killed in action in Indochina last week, but two died of non-hostile causes, the U.S. Command announced today.

In addition, the Command said six more men were listed as missing and 13 were reported wounded.

South Vietnamese casualties continued at unusually high levels caused by the North Vietnamese offensive. A total of 631 government troops were reported killed, 196 missing and 2,346 wounded.

The Saigon command claimed 2,879 enemy were killed during the weekly reporting period which ended Saturday.

U.S. Pilots in Copenhagen

COPENHAGEN (AP) — The three American pilots freed from a North Vietnamese prison camp left Copenhagen today on their journey home after a sharp exchange in Moscow between a U.S. official and a member of an antiwar escort group.

They are heading for New York.

Danish prime minister Jens Otto Krag said he hoped their release might be a step towards an end to the Vietnam war.

"As fellow human beings we share the joy of these three men who after captivity again are free and with their families," Krag said.

The prime minister said he was confident the whole Danish nation shared his sincere hope that "this humanitarian act—the release of the prisoners—will herald a positive outcome of the peace negotiations which can quickly put an end to the human sufferings caused by this tragic conflict."

Navy Lt. (j.g.) Mark Gartley and Norris Charles and Air Force Maj. Edward Elias arrived in Moscow Wednesday night from Peking. Among those seeing them off this morning from Moscow airport was Adolph Dubs, the American charge d'affaires.

In an encounter with Dubs, the Rev. William Sloane Coffin, one of the escorts, told the diplomat, "You are so indifferent to the plight of those pilots in North Vietnam."

Dubs, his face flushed, shot back at the Yale University chaplain, "How dare you."

The Rev. Coffin retorted, "Now shut up and you listen to me for a change."

Then the clergyman told Dubs, "It's clear who's using whom this time."

He referred to secret writing kits that the North Vietnamese claim were sent to U.S. war prisoners in North Vietnam by U.S. officials.

The Pentagon and POW relatives have denied that secret writing kits or any other types of espionage equipment have been sent to the prisoners. With less measured words, Dubs told the chaplain: "Don't address me in those terms. Just don't address me in those terms."

The exchange broke up with the clergyman telling Dubs, "Get off your hind legs and come down off your high horse."

The pilots heard part of the exchange but stayed in the background and did not intervene.

The background to the dispute was the desire of the North Vietnamese and the prisoners' escort that they not be contacted by U.S. officials en route home and that they travel on commercial airlines.

Dubs met the pilots Wednesday night on their arrival from Peking and offered to put them up at the ambassador's residence in Moscow and to provide a medical evacuation plane for their return to the United States from Copenhagen. But the pilots refused.

The fliers were released from the POW camp Sept. 17 with where they dined, the understanding they would fly only civilian aircraft to America.

"We'd better proceed in this way for the safe release of the other POWs," Gartley said.

Several of the antiwar activists traveling with the fliers tried to block Dubs' way to the pilots after they arrived at the airport late Wednesday. But a meeting was arranged later in an airport office of Aeroflot, the Soviet airline.

"No demands were made on the pilots," Dubs said.

But the Rev. Coffin later termed Dubs' behavior "threatening." He said Dubs had "strongly recommended they take the medivac plane from Copenhagen."

However, when asked if the U.S. diplomat had threatened the fliers, the chaplain said, "No, not actually."

The others in the antiwar group included David Dellinger and Cora Weiss, cochairmen of the Committee of Liaison with Families of Prisoners Detained in North Vietnam, and Richard Falk.

After the Wednesday night airport scene, the pilots appeared more relaxed and in their highest spirits since release from the POW camp. Each man called relatives in the United States from an Aeroflot representative's home, the POW camp Sept. 17 with where they dined,

'Put Cities Back Together', Dems' McGovern Pledges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Calling the 1972 election "a referendum on the future of new groups, McGovern said American cities," Sen. George McGovern today pledged America home again more money and more cooperation to U.S. mayors "to put our cities back together."

McGovern blamed continuation of the war in Vietnam, the defense spending, and President Nixon's "special" tax favors for the wealthy "for draining off federal funds needed to make real progress against urban decline."

The Democratic presidential candidate, pausing in Washington between campaign tours, met with Mayors Kenneth A. Gibson of Newark, John V. Lindsay of New York and Roman S. Gribbs of Detroit to set up an Urban Affairs Policy Panel and a Mayors for the McGovern campaign committee.

In a statement prepared for reforms and defense spending programs for the poor "a matter of right," he would seek $15 billion to relieve cities and towns of about one-third of elementary and secondary school costs; and he would propose a $1.5 billion drug control and addict treatment program.

Meanwhile, the New York Times today endorsed the presidential candidacy of McGovern in an editorial that praised the Democratic nominee for his "humanitarian philosophy and humane scale of values, his courage and forthrightness."

In the editorial, the Times said McGovern "can restore a sense of purpose to the American people as a whole, sense of participation to their component parts and a sense of integrity to their government."

Bus Problem Temporarily Solved

KINGSTON Thirteen-year-old Colleen Kearney returned to school today, while her father and the Kingston Consolidated School District, in the meantime, attempt to resolve their dispute over school bus transportation for the girl.

Thomas Kearney of Murray Road in Sawkill withdrew his daughter from the M. Clifford Miller Junior High School two weeks ago, in protest over a school district policy that prohibits his daughter from riding a school bus from a Ruby Road bus stop to the Kearney home less than a mile-and-a-half away.

A meeting between Town of Kingston Justice Robert Ferrigan, school district transportation director Kenneth E. Hyatt and Kearney was held Wednesday night. With Ferrigan acting as mediator, both sides discussed their views on the matter and possible solutions to the problem.

At the meeting, Kearney agreed to allow his daughter to return to school; Hyatt agreed to continue to explore possibilities for a settlement satisfactory to both parties.

Kearney told The Freeman today that he will provide transportation for his daughter from the bus stop to their home each day. "If there is no solution after a reasonable period of time," he said, "I'll take other action."

Hyatt today termed the meeting "amicable," and said he is "hopeful" that a solution will be resolved. "But no decision has been made yet," he added. "We're still in the talking stage."

According to school district policy, secondary students can not be provided transportation over a route less than 1.5 miles; the Kearney home is 1.4 miles from the bus stop. Kearney maintains that the route is not safe for his daughter to walk alone.

District officials have said that the mileage regulations can be altered, but that it would not be financially feasible to do so for all students similarly affected.

Contract Talks...

KINGSTON The two sides last met on Sept. 5. Several days later, Savago asked each side to draw up a "position paper" stating where each side stood in negotiations. The Faculty Association presented its position paper to the county last week; Savago said the county presented its position paper to the teachers last night.

Despite the apparent misunderstanding in what was placed on the bargaining table Wednesday night, Duane said today that he is "cautiously optimistic" that progress can be made towards an eventual settlement of the five-month contract dispute. An impasse in contract talks was declared May 17.

Savago, however, declined optimism. "It's a little too early to tell right now," he commented.

The two sides have scheduled another session for Friday night.

Negotiating teams for the Ulster County Legislature and the Ulster County Community College Faculty Association resumed contract talks Wednesday night, but the two sides apparently don't agree on the substance of those talks.

Faculty Association president Allen Duane said the county presented a new "package of proposals" at Wednesday's session. Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature, however, said the county merely presented its "position papers" that were drawn up several weeks ago.

Duane said the proposals presented Wednesday by the county's negotiating team were "essentially the same" that the county presented earlier. Savago replied, "Of course they were. They were the same proposals."

Proposed Leash Law...Controversy

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON New York State has had its share of emotionally charged legislative issues in the past few years, including abortion, no-fault insurance and parochial school aid and now still another issue looms on the horizon which already promises to spark great controversy.

It is a newly proposed dog law which incorporates marked changes in fees, seizure of dogs, tattoos and other proposed innovations and is largely a leash law.

Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, "believing that the humane treatment of animals is a social issue of great priority," outlined the proposed law as drawn by the State Department of Agriculture and Markets to members of the Shawangunk Kennel Club which met in Kingston Tuesday night and he is seeking public opinion on the proposed measure.

The new law, as proposed by the Advisory Committee on Revision of the State Dog Law, is now the subject of public hearings throughout the state and is drawing strong reaction from dog owners, breeders and members of the SPCA, kennel clubs and other organizations. "It may be an issue during the 1973 Legislative session," Bell said, explaining that that is why he is now seeking opinions from his constituents.

Some highlights of the proposed law include:

- Fees for male and female dogs, now set at $2.35 and $5.35 respectively, would be raised to $10 each.
- Breeder permits would be set at $25 each and would increase depending on the number of dogs harbored up to $100 for more than 25 dogs. A breeder is defined under the law as a person who maintains a place where one or more purebred dogs registered by a recognized registry association are harbored or kept. "That means anyone with a purebred dog will have to have such a permit," Bell said.
- Every puppy shall be tattooed with an official tattoo between the ages of four months and six months in the manner required by the commissioner. Bell questioned this, too, pointing to miniature dogs or toy dogs. If they already have their kennel registration tattoo and their social security tattoo, "there isn't going to be enough dog left" for still another tattoo, he said. The assemblyman also asked, "What happens when the dog owner moves from one state to another where dog laws differ?" Bell also pointed out that the proposed new dog law in New York State is applicable only to localities outside of New York City. Vacationers and hunters with dogs from New York City could run into trouble upstate, he said.
- Any animal control officer or peace officer is to seize any untattooed dog or tattooed unlicensed dog or any dog that is observed trespassing.
- Each dog not tattooed shall be held for 72 hours and if not redeemed by his owner during that period, "may" be euthanized after 96 hours. Impoundment fees of $10 for 24 hours and $3 for each additional 24 hours will be charged.
- Each tattooed, unlicensed dog shall be held for 96 hours (four days) and at the expiration of 168 hours, (seven days), if unredeemed, may be euthanized.
- Licensed dogs seized for trespassing may also be euthanized after 168 hours if after notification, the owner fails to redeem his animal during that period.
- In all cases, dogs seized will be properly sheltered, fed and watered.
- Each county, city and town must and each village may establish and maintain a pound or shelter. In lieu of a shelter, the municipalities may contract with other municipalities or dog societies, hospitals or kennel clubs to maintain a pound or shelter.
- Under the proposed law, any municipality which did not want a local leash law may pass a local law permitting dogs to trespass.
- There are also provisions for dog damage, protection of deer, dangerous dogs, disposition of fines and license fees and rabies vaccinations.
- Bell urges those interested to secure copies of the proposal from Frank Walkley, Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets, Albany and to analyze the law as proposed, and make recommendations or recommendations they wish and then send a copy of their recommendations to Walkley with copies to Assemblyman Bell.

Positive Steps Now Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — In Secretary George Shultz that contrast to their mood a few days ago, the world's top finance officials now are saying that large strides can be taken in shaping a new international monetary system within a year. As the International Monetary Fund moved today to set up the negotiating forum for monetary reform, finance ministers and central bankers attending the IMF's annual meeting believed the basis for serious talks finally had been laid.

Until the United States came out with specific monetary proposals Tuesday, the mood was gloomy over whether any kind of agreement could be hammered out between now and the next IMF meeting in Nairobi, Kenya, next September. "I leave this meeting with a little bit more optimism," said Helmut Schmidt, the West German finance minister, adding that he was pleased the United States provided a "coherent platform which we have so long waited for." Schmidt said several major points had been resolved, including a U.S. pledge to make the dollar convertible again once its balance of payments is in line, and a softening of the American insistence that trade and monetary talks be closely linked.

But a number of differences remain, indicating that hard bargaining lies ahead. French Finance Minister Valéry Giscard d'Estaing told the delegates Wednesday that next year's meeting should result in final agreement on how the new money-exchange system would work. He agreed with U.S. Treasury the dollar should enjoy the same rights as other currencies of the world. Shultz proposed that the dollar be allowed to swing in value in the exchange markets just as widely as the French franc, the British pound, the German mark, or any other money.

But he differed with the Americans on other major points, including one that may prove the most nettlesome problem of all: what to do about the extra accumulation of dollars overseas while monetary reform is being negotiated.

Giscard d'Estaing said in effect that he leans toward putting some limit on the extra accumulation of dollars, an idea strongly opposed by the United States. The issue is more than a technical one. One of the big questions in the monetary-reform debate will be how the dollar glut overseas will be reduced. Some economists estimate European and other countries hold an excess of $54 billion they can't cash in for U.S. reserves. The U.S. reserve position, including gold, is only about one-fifth of that amount and that explains why President Nixon suspended the convertibility of the dollar into gold on Aug. 15, 1971.

Widening Gap in Meat Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government report today showed that supermarkets widened the beef-price gap between farmers and consumers to a record margin in August, thus failing to pass along to housewives recent declines in cattle prices.

The widening farm-to-consumer meat-price spread, subject of White House arm-twisting of retailers earlier this month, was shown in "market basket" report issued by the Agriculture Department.

In August, the report said, the average retail price of beef dropped 1.5 cents per pound from a record high in July of more than $1.17 per pound to slightly less than $1.16.

But while cattle producers saw their share drop 8.4 per cent in August, middlemen representing packing plants and retail stores widened their margins 12.6 per cent.

Broken down, a pound of choice beef—a major indicator for family food spending—had a "farm value" in August of 71.0 cents per pound when sold in supermarkets. That compared with 77.5 cents in July.

That figure is not what cattle producers get for live animals, since it takes nearly 2.3 pounds of steer on the hoof to make one pound of supermarket beef. But the figure does represent a producer's share of what the housewife spends at meat counters.

Today's report showed the total cost of a market-basket food list—theoretically enough to feed a typical family for a year—actually declined slightly in August from the record $1.322 peak in July.

The $1 decline was attributed mainly to the lower retail prices for beef and poultry. Slightly higher prices were reported for several items, including pork, which has been at record highs both on the farm and at meat counters.

The $1.321 index was 4.5 per cent higher than a year ago. Meantime, the total spread between the "Farm Value" and the retail price increased to a record high of 44.8 cents per pound for retail beef in August, from 39.8 cents in July.

Broken down further, the farm-to-housewife beef spread showed the retailer's margin was another record of 37.3 cents per pound in August, compared with 33.0 cents in July.

The farm-to-carcase spread, or wholesale share, in August was 7.5 cents, up from 6.8 cents in July. Earlier this year, however, the carcass spread was higher, reported at 8.1 cents last May.

Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Cost of Living Council, told food retailers in August that the wholesale price of beef began to decline in July and that the council "expected to see a corresponding reduction" in supermarkets. Rumsfeld repeated the expectation on Sept. 7 and said government reviews would be started to monitor beef prices in major food chains.

Bob-Cat Snow Throwers are the toughest "cats" around, ready to chew up the largest snow drifts.

In any side-by-side competition, Bob-Cats easily come out ahead. They're heavier for better traction, better action, and built stronger than other machines with the same or greater horsepower. A unique 2-stage design that keeps snow moving in a straight line virtually eliminates stalling, even in wet, heavy snow.

Bob-Cat Snow Throwers are self-propelled, forward and reverse, with automatic safety reverse control. Available in 5, 7 and 8 H.P. models, with "Easy Spin" winterized Briggs & Stratton engines.

FUND RAISING — Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (R) is shown discussing fund raising proposals with John Munroe of Millbrook, who is his campaign fund chairman. Fish, first elected to office in 1969, is running for reelection in the new 25th District which includes part of Ulster and Dutchess counties, all of Putnam County and the six northern towns of Westchester County.

Schermerhorn Lists Appointments

KINGSTON — Schermerhorn ran in a June Primary. In making the appointments, Schermerhorn said, "It pleases me very much that these two good friends will again carry my message to the Ulster County voters."

"Our headquarters will be at 244 Clinton Avenue, Kingston and we all wish that anyone who has any questions concerning the issues will feel free to stop in at anytime to discuss them with the Armaters or myself."

The 40th Senatorial District takes in the City of Kingston and the towns of Esopus, Marlboro, Lloyd, New Paltz, Plattekill and Shawangunk. Also all of Orange County and Stony Point in Rockland County.

Schermerhorn is running against Democrat B. Sears Hunter, Liberal Donald I. Short and Independent Joseph Mar-torana.

State Sen. Richard E. Schermerhorn, Republican Conservative candidate for election in Ulster's new 40th Senatorial District, has announced the appointment of Raymond and Wanda Armater of Kingston to coordinate his November election campaign in Ulster County.

The Armaters served in a similar capacity when Scher-

Burns Terms Fish ... 'Unresponsive'

CARMEL — a nonpartisan Washington based foundation which promotes the use of fair campaign practices. Responding to the committee's pending investigation of his campaign practices Burns said Fish had claimed that his taxpayer financed distribution Campaign Practices Committee, of several mailing pieces throughout New York's new 25th Congressional District did not violate federal law and that "there has been no effort or intention to confuse."

"The Fair Campaign Practices Committee is investigating whether Fish has misrepresented himself as the Congressman of the new 25th Congressional District," Burns said. Fish is now the Congressman for New York's old 28th District. 75 per cent of the voters of the new 25th District are not represented by Fish, he explained.

In a letter submitted to the committee, Burns, the Democratic Congressional candidate in the new 25th, stated, "One fact clearly stands out — Fish carefully refused to deny that he has misrepresented himself to the voters as the congressman from the new 25th Congressional District even though he is not its congressman."

Burns further charged that Fish's most recent mailing at taxpayer expense "attempted even while this investigation was pending, to persuade the voters of the new 25th District that they are now represented by him, when, in fact, they are not."

Burns said that in Fish's most recent franked mailing, congressman claimed that his district "has been made smaller and renamed the 25th Congressional District." Burns replied that "this is simply untrue."

The Fair Campaign Practices Committee indicated that it is continuing its investigation of Fish's campaign practices, Burns said.

Kazolias Scores Stewart Issue

POUGHKEEPSIE — While the "Republicans" want Stewart Airfield to be a major jetport, they pretend concern and tokenism," Liberal Assembly candidate Satoro Kazolias charged today.

Kazolias is opposing incumbent Republican Conservative Emeeel Betros and Democrat Philip Magnarella in the new 99th Assembly District.

Kazolias said he led the fight against Stewart "before most people even knew where it was. In 1967 I was the only public figure that opposed the $2.5

billion bond issue that provided $250 million for the development of Stewart," Kazolias claimed.

"It is a fact that all politicians and fuzzy-minded planners supported the Republican spending scheme."

"Stewart is the product of big, uncontrollable government that is incapable of considering the taxpayer," he said.

"As Assemblyman, I would introduce legislation to have mandatory referendums on all issues where eminent domain is used and thus stop Stewart," he concluded.

O'Neil Scores Robison Remarks

ITHACA — Republican Representative Howard W. Robison has shown great candor in admitting at a Tompkins County Chamber of Commerce meeting recently that President Nixon may have to increase taxes after the election in order to curb inflation, if wage and price controls do not work. Patrick O'Neil, Conservative candidate for Congress commented.

"It was only a couple of weeks ago that Robison was singing the praises of wage-government issues bonds to price controls, but that was a week before the figures on inflation under the control mechanism came out," O'Neil said.

"It was, of course, absurd to believe at any time that wage-price controls could do anything to prevent inflation."

"Our inflation is caused by the government spending more money than it takes in in revenues. When this occurs, the cover the debt, and the Federal Reserve Board creates money to buy up the bonds. The result is more money pursuing the same amount of goods — inflation," O'Neil continued.

"The most that wage-price controls can do is to distribute the cost of inflation between the three great economic sectors of our society: business, labor, and the consumer. Controls cannot themselves do anything to stop inflation," he stated.

"Robison is correct in saying that an increase in taxes is one way of fighting inflation, but let me suggest to him that there is a better way: cut spending."

"No doubt, to a liberal legislator like Robison, who has no dearth of new schemes to squander the taxpayers money, this will not seem a viable alternative. What we need if we are ever to control the incredible rate of taxation in this country is more conservative congressmen, who will give spending reduction the highest priority, and who will restore vigor to the private sector of the economy by removing the governmental red-tape that helps cause stagnation," O'Neil concluded.

Hinchey Cites Circumvention In Improvement Bonds Sale

SAUGERTIES — "Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and the majority in the state legislature blatantly circumvented the will of the public during the last session when they authorized the sale of $100 million in highway improvement bonds issued by the Thruway Authority," Democrat-Liberal candidate for the Assembly, Maurice D. Hinchey Jr. charged today.

"The authorization for the sale of these bonds, supported by Bell, was another of those last minute maneuvers typical of the legislature as it nears adjournment," he said. "The money is for immediate use by the state for highway repair projects in this election year. The authorization of this bond issue circumvents the public's rejection at the polls of the recent $2.5 billion transportation bond issue, which Bell also supported. At one stroke it places the state $100 million more in debt, through the state's agreement to repay the year period.

"While taxpayers suffer because of these circuitous bond issues, the states large banks reap high tax-free profits on the interest paid by the public. That is why seven of New York City's largest commercial banks, including Rockefeller's Chase Manhattan, contributed $5,000 to $10,000 each to the campaign for the passage of the transportation bond issue last November," Hinchey claimed.

"The worst part about this recent legislative scheme is that it circumvents the constitutional right of the people to vote on state indebtedness."

"The ordinary source of highway repair and maintenance funds is the state budget appropriation for this purpose for the Department of Transportation. The regular budget, passed earlier in the session, appropriated over $91 million for that purpose. Where has that money gone? And why was another $100 million bond issue found necessary so close to the end of the legislative session?" he asked.

"This extra $100 million represents not only an election year pork barrel with sordid political implications; it is also a slap in the face to every citizen who thought he had voted against further indebtedness for highway spending at this time."

"The records of the state comptroller show that New York State has a current debt of some $8.1 billion. Extraordinary as that figure is, it is even more extraordinary that only $3.3 billion of that debt was passed with voter approval.

The largest part, $4.8 billion, the interest on the state debt was voted by the legislature without the approval of the voters. The interest alone on this past borrowing will take up $500 million of this year's $7.9 billion budget. The interest on short term borrowing to get through the last fiscal year will run another $50 million," he said.

"It is irresponsible to allow Hinchey concluded.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 28, 1972

WASHINGTON — Shortly before his appointment to the Supreme Court, Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., urged business leaders in a confidential memo to use the courts as a "social, economic and political" instrument. He recommended a militant political action program, ranging from the courts to the campuses. His 33-page memo is now being circulated among top corporate executives by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Powell Memo to Big Business

Jack Anderson Says

"Business must learn the lesson . . .," he wrote, "that political power is necessary; that such power must be assiduously cultivated; and that, when necessary, it must be used aggressively and with determination . . ."

"There should be no hesitation to attack the (Ralph) Naders, the (Herbert) Marcuses and others who openly seek destruction of the system. Nor should there be reluctance to penalize politically those who oppose it."

In particular Powell advocated that the businessmen's battle should be fought in the courts. "Under our constitutional system, especially with an activist-minded Supreme Court," he declared, "the judiciary may be the most important instrument for social, economic and political change.

Using the Courts
"Other organizations and groups, recognizing this, have been far more astute in exploiting judicial action than American business. Perhaps the most active exploiters of the judicial system have been groups ranging in political orientation from liberal to the far left . . .

"Labor unions, civil rights groups and now the public interest law firms are extremely active in the judicial arena. Their success, often at business' expense, has not been inconsequential."

"This is a vast area of opportunity for the Chamber," suggested Powell, "if it is willing to undertake the role of spokesman for American business and if, in turn, business is willing to provide the funds . . ."

"The Chamber would need a highly competent staff of lawyers. In special situations, it should be authorized to engage, to appear as counsel amicus in the Supreme Court, lawyers of national standing and reputation."

Powell's blunt proposal to use the courts, especially the Supreme Court, to champion big business was made two months before his own appointment to the Supreme Court. His ideas were contained in a memo, stamped "Confidential," which the FBI failed to turn up during its field investigation of Powell.

Senators, therefore, never got a chance to ask Powell whether he might use his position on the Supreme Court to put his ideas into practice and to influence the court in behalf of business interests.

Powell is also a distinguished educator who served on the Virginia Board of Education and as a trustee of Washington and Lee University. He was impressed with the need to mold probusiness attitudes at the high school and college level.

"Few things are more sanctified in American life," he wrote, "than academic freedom. It would be fatal to attack this as a principle." But he had some ideas for promoting "openness," "fairness" and "balance" on the campus.

"The Chamber," he urged, "should consider establishing a staff of highly qualified scholars in the social sciences who do believe in the system . . ."

Censoring Textbooks
"The staff of scholars (or preferably a panel of independent scholars) should evaluate social science textbooks, especially in economics, political science and sociology. This should be continuing program . . ."

"There also should be a staff of speakers of the highest competency. These might include the scholars, and certainly those who speak for the Chamber would have to articulate the product of the scholars . . ."

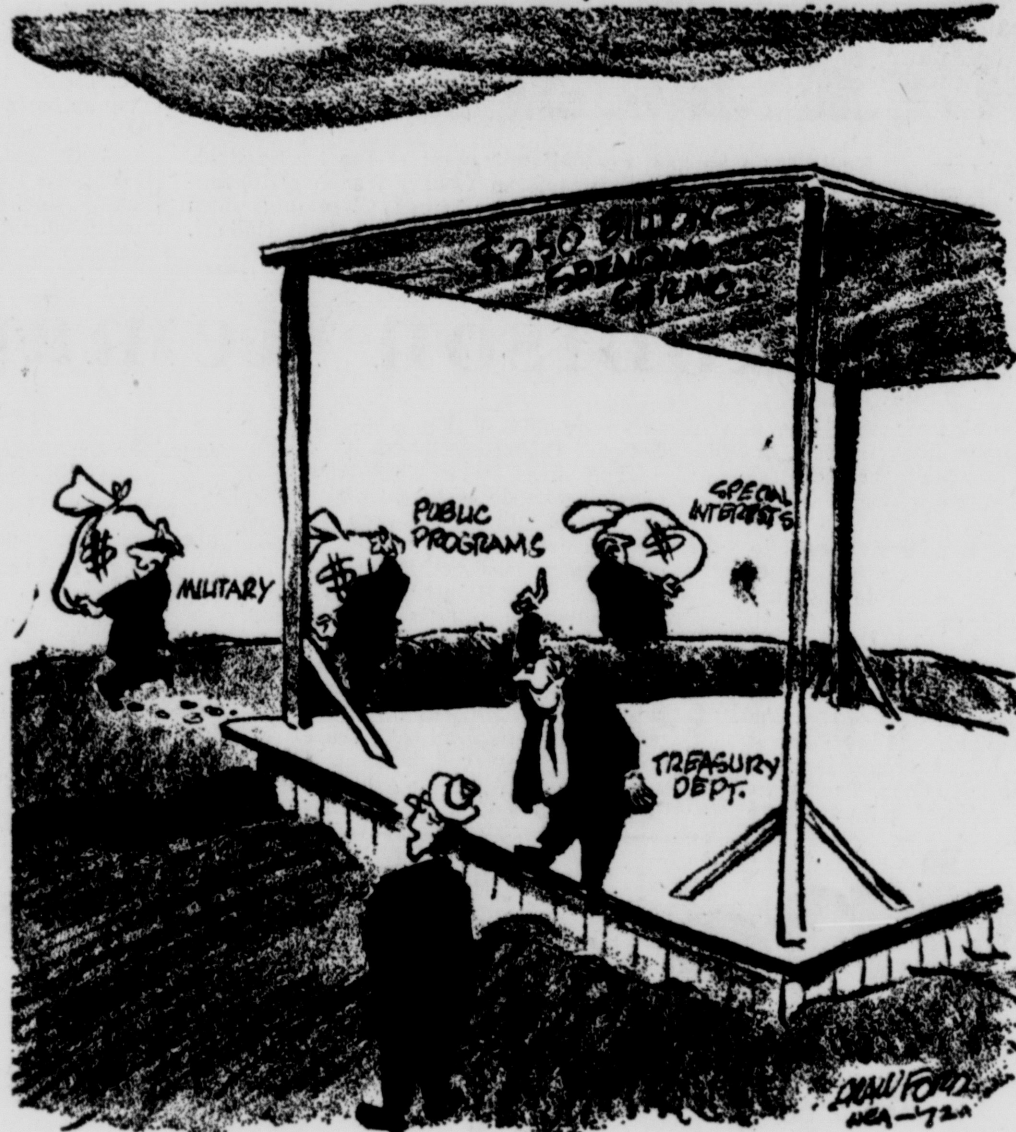

"Perhaps the most fundamental problem is the imbalance of many faculties. Correcting this is indeed a long-range and difficult project. Yet, it should be undertaken as a part of an overall program. This would mean the urging of the need for faculty balance upon university administrators and boards of trustees."

"The methods to be employed require careful thought, and the obvious pitfalls must be avoided. Improper pressure would be counterproductive . . ."

"This is a long road and not one for the fainthearted. But if pursued with integrity and conviction, it could lead to a strengthening of both academic freedom on the campus and of the values which have made America the most productive of all societies."

Footnote: Powell drafted his memo originally for Eugene B. Sydnor Jr., head of the Southern Department Stores chain, who is also a director of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. It was Sydnor who got the Chamber interested in Powell's proposals. He was disturbed that he had obtained a copy of Powell's confidential memorandum. But he acknowledged it had been prepared by Powell who agreed to reduce to writing their discussions on how to defend the free enterprise system. We made repeated attempts to reach Powell for his comment, but he never returned our calls.

"It Would Be Nice If You Had Some Walls, Too!"

David Lawrence Says

First Step at Last

WASHINGTON — At last a committee of Congress has taken a step to stop Americans from dealing with the enemies of the United States in the midst of a war. The House Internal Security Committee has approved a bill which would prohibit any citizen of this country from traveling to nations engaged in armed conflict with the United States unless authorized by the President after he had determined whether the trip was in the national interest. Violators would be subject to 10 years in prison, a $10,000 fine, or both.

The action by the committee, which would be followed soon by passage in the House and Senate, is aimed at those who have been in communication with officials in North Vietnam and who have been told by their friends or misguided advisors that it is proper to go there. Unquestionably, North Vietnam has used innocent persons as instruments for its propaganda and has convinced some members of the families of prisoners of war that there was nothing improper about their trips.

Richard H. Ichord,

Democrat of Missouri, who is chairman of the House Internal Security Committee, has expressed the hope that passage of the bill would "stem the venomous flow of statements emanating from the mouths of American citizens on the soil of the enemy." While the measure is aimed at the activists in the antiwar groups it could be an obstacle to further traveling to North Vietnam by relatives of prisoners of war. Visits of this kind might be made by citizens of neutral nations and by such organizations as the International Red Cross which have long had humanitarian missions as their objective.

The Hanoi government arranged for some relatives of prisoners to come to North Vietnam and secured statements which are filled with unwitting propaganda that the visiting individuals probably thought would do no harm but might secure the release of the prisoners. The Communists, however, spread the comments throughout the world and quote Americans as criticizing their own government.

The propaganda machine of the Communists, moreover, has had opportunities to use the names of prominent Americans who have visited their own country. The effort to divide American public opinion by the use of propaganda has been going on for some time. But it has not been until recently that so many opportunities were afforded the North Vietnamese to get the benefit of interviews with well-known Americans. All this has produced resentment in Congress, and hence the bill was approved by the committee after a 45-minute hearing.

To denounce the United States while a prisoner under compulsion in Hanoi would be one thing. But some visitors have returned to America and continued their defense of North Vietnam with arguments supporting the military adversary of their own country in a war that has been going on for several years. This has rarely occurred in previous conflicts.

It is surprising that Congress has not moved on this issue before. For the impression conveyed by those Americans who have deliberately gone to North Vietnam, talked with officials there about the problems of the prisoners or other matters related to the war, and then gave interviews with adverse comments about their own government is something that has stirred up a lot of ill-feeling throughout the nation, as well as in Congress.

It is questionable whether all this will help the release of the prisoners when the negotiations at Paris are resumed in earnest. Hanoi has mistakenly assumed that the American people were swinging away from the administration and would not be willing to continue the war. But the South Vietnamese are still growing stronger, and the advisory aid given by the United States and its airpower will be available if any new offensives are started against South Vietnam.

There is confidence here that, once the election is over in this country, there will be a clearer view of America's position in support of South Vietnam than there is today. This, it is believed, will bring the influence of Peking and Moscow into the picture and during 1973 will force North Vietnam to end the war.

Martin F. Nolan Says

Spiro Agnew... The New Parson

WINSTON SALEM, N.C. — When Vinegar Bend Mizell's arm began to lose its zip in the late 1950s, he experimented with a slider, a curve — anything that would compensate for his faded fast ball and still fool the National League.

Old Wilmer, now the Republican Congressman from this district, could have taken a training tip from the new knuckleballer who came to speak here on his behalf.

Vice President Agnew, who whiffed aspirin past the opposition in the '68 and '70 seasons, is now mixing it up — a little Eddie Lopat, a Luis Tiant wiggle and an occasional Don Drysdale brushback when the manager says to stick it in George McGovern's ear.

But is there a new Spiro Agnew? Bouncing through the Bible Belt, one finds that the question may be irrelevant because American politics has found a new source of redemption. It is simply self-proclamation.

The Vice President confesses that he is a new man and he simply is, no matter what he says or how vividly he evokes his recent past.

"It is a labor of love to speak for Richard Nixon," he tells crowds and it probably is, for Agnew must surely admire his leader's feat in creating a "new Nixon" in what so many thought was the President's Hoyt Wilhelm twilight era.

In the mid-1960s, Richard Nixon proclaimed a "new Nixon," banishing apparently forever the thespian of the 1952 "Checkers" speech and the valedictorian of the Dean Acheson College of Cowardly Communist Containment.

Did the process work? Did it ever . . . the 1950s symbol of division is now, according to public opinion polls, an amalgam of Roosevelt, Churchill and Pericles.

Agnew found the first questions at press conferences in Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia and Kentucky invariably centering on his new image; he was pleased to tell reporters how pleased he was with the new image.

"Give 'em hell, Spy-ro," cried a voice from the Grand Ole Opry House balcony in Nashville. What followed was hardly even purgatorial, simply a paean in monotone of the past three years of unbroken progress.

Agnew's sallies that seemed so bitter in 1970 now sound like witless vaudeville today. "I'd like to go up to Lookout Mountain," he told an audience at Chattanooga. "I'm told that the view is magnificent and on a clear day you can see all seven of George McGovern's vice presidential candidates." Is that old Agnew or new?

"I always try to fly American Airlines when I go commercial," he continued. "I feel safe because no skyjacker in the world could sit through a Chet Huntley commercial."

Is that old Agnew or new? "Ramsey Clark wanted to go back to Hanoi for a while longer," he added, "but his seeing-eye dog got sick and had to stay home." Is that old Agnew or new?

One thing is sure. The crowds are listless, even disappointed at the Kiwanian elevation of their hero's rhetoric.

In the bosom of the late Confederacy, Agnew seldom summons rebel yells anymore. He has become what the South thought it needed least another preacher-man, knucklebaling his way past sin.

Do Away With Motherhood?

Twenty years from now, mothers will be a mere specialty group in the United States, says Jeanne Binstock, a sociologist at the University of Massachusetts.

This state of affairs will not result from the women's liberation movement but from economic factors and technological change, she predicts in an article in appropriately, The Futurist magazine.

Modern medicine's success in reducing mortality has resulted in an overproduction of people, she explains. Women's lib movements are really a consequence of technological change. They have appeared at the historical moment when a sharp reduction in the occupational group known as mothers is mandatory.

"We are forced to face the fact that if we do not take from women their role of mother and replace it with something else, we will be throttled by the overproduction of babies. We thus face the need to demand that the ancient and honorable occupation of motherhood fall into disrepute, and that women commit themselves to other occupations.

"Women must be 'liberated' to enjoy the fruits of other occupations, whether they want to be or not." (Emphasis hers.)

As a sidelight to this prediction, it is interesting to note that Ralph Nader, whose interests seem to have no limit, predicts that by 1976, the nation's 200th anniversary, "Women will no longer be wearing cosmetics. We'll have ended the high priority we put on that kind of activity."

Don't say you weren't warned, ladies. And gentlemen.

Ulster County Court Proceedings

Innocent Pleas Entered in Murder Cases

KINGSTON 67, in her Cottekill home Aug. 15, was represented by Richard 1. Kingston, an unemployed laborer, who was indicted on charges of first degree manslaughter and possession of a dangerous weapon in the knife slaying of Harry Zehnick Jr. of Paltz, indicted on two counts of murder in the alleged beating death of 17-year-old Colleen Thurin of Kingston in Newburgh and Paltzkill, in Paltz, Aug. 29, was represented by Robert Ricken. His case was also adjourned until Oct. 25.

Norberto Cordero, 36, of RD 1, Kingston, an unemployed laborer, who was indicted on charges of first degree manslaughter and possession of a dangerous weapon in the knife slaying of Harry Zehnick Jr. of Paltz, indicted on two counts of murder in the alleged beating death of 17-year-old Colleen Thurin of Kingston in Newburgh and Paltzkill, in Paltz, Aug. 29, was represented by Robert Ricken. His case was also adjourned until Oct. 25.

Arthur Cyr of Kingston also entered a plea of innocent to charges of alleged grand larceny in the second degree. His case was marked ready for trial and he was released in his own recognizance. Cyr, who was represented by John Modjeska, is alleged to have embezzled rent receipts in excess of $15,000 while in the employ of the Hillcrest Garden Apartments from January through March of this year.

Henry Feinberg of Kerhonkson, also entered a plea of innocent and was released in his own recognizance. He was indicted for alleged criminal possession of stolen property in the first degree and illegal possession of a vehicle identification number.

Philip Russo of Esopus, indicted by the Grand Jury on charges of burglary in the third degree, entered a plea of innocent and had his case adjourned until Oct. 1. Scott Russo, 17, also of Esopus, was judged a youthful offender and entitled to privacy during court proceedings. Both youths were arrested July 1 on charges of breaking and entering the Presentation Church in Port Ewen. They were represented by Modjeska.

Michael Christoforo of 192 Clinton Avenue, Kingston, entered a plea of innocent to charges of criminal possession of a dangerous drug in the second degree and the sixth degree. His case was adjourned until Oct. 11, pending motions. He was represented by Joshua Koplovitz.

Teacher-Leaders Face Sentencing

BEACON, N.Y. (AP) — Beacon's teachers were scheduled to return to the classrooms today but five of their officers were also to appear for sentencing in State Supreme Court.

The 166-member Beacon Teachers Association ratified a three-year contract with the Beacon school system Wednesday night and voted to return to classes, ending a 21-day work stoppage by 176 of the system's 192 teachers. Substitutes and parents supervised classrooms in the teachers' absence.

A formal announcement of contract acceptance will take place Monday, a spokesman for the teachers said.

Earlier in the day, State Supreme Court Justice John Donohoe found the teachers' union and five of its leaders in contempt of court.

Declared guilty were the association and Fred Tlumak, president; Eugene Klein, vice president; Doris Filkins, secretary; Elaine Hofstetter, treasurer and John Buscherm, chief negotiator.

A spokesman for the teachers said that Tlumak considers the new, three-year contract "just and fair" and hopes that it will end conflict with the school board.

The contract provides for an overall 21 per cent increase of last year's salaries and constitutes a "financial package" which includes increases in differentials for degrees earned, hikes in annual increments and other items as part of the 21 per cent boost, the spokesman explained. The increase will be spread out over a three-year period.

The contract, he said, will raise the starting salary of teachers from the present level of $8,350 to approximately $9,450 in three years. The maximum salary in the third year will be about $19,000.

The spokesman said that the total cost of the pay package will be about $800,000. The contract, he said, also includes about a dozen non-economic items relating to the operation of the teacher's association and other matters.

Board President John O'Leary said Wednesday that the board intends to honor the contract. "However," he said, "I cannot give dignity to the teachers' action by claiming that this was a truly bilaterally agreed upon settlement."

He described it as "a rather sophisticated form of extortion" since he claimed continuation of the strike would have meant continued harm to the schoolchildren of the district.

The association and the five leaders face charges that are punishable under law with jail sentences of up to 30 days and unlimited fines.

The teachers struck Sept. 7 over contract issues, but school officials brought the contempt charges after they claimed the teachers had violated two court orders against the strike.

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The Public Service Commission said Wednesday that the New York Telephone Co. has not filed an application to increase the charge of telephone installations.

A spokesman for American Telephone & Telegraph said earlier in the week that the cost of an average installation was $60—and there had been reports New York Telephone would increase its installation charge to that figure.

Under existing rates approved by the PSC, the company charges $12.50 for installation of a home phone and $25 for a business telephone.

Meanwhile, Assemblyman Robert F. Kelly, R-Brooklyn, chairman of the Committee on Corporations, Authorities and Commissions, said the increase reports New York Telephone to $60 was exorbitant.

"In the event that such an increase request is filed, the matter will be carefully scrutinized by the PSC," Kelly said. "The enormity of the increase and its sudden emergence would be fully investigated, as well as the validity of installation cost claims."

"The legislature will continue to play a vital role as protector of the public trust," he said.

"We will closely monitor Ma Bell's requests for increases as well as ascertaining that the PSC's activities are in the best interest of New York State consumers."

Kelly said that, if necessary, his committee would independently conduct public hearings on the matter.

PORT JERVIS, N.Y. (AP) — First it was her height, now they say its her agility. Both have prevented a 21-year-old holder of a police-science degree from her bid to become the first woman on the police force of this city of about 9,000 persons.

The last setback came when State Supreme Court Justice John C. Marbach of Goshen ruled Allyson Wagner unqualified because she did not complete an agility test Aug. 2.

Miss Wagner, daughter of Police Lt. Warren Wagner, began her quest for a patrolman's uniform late this spring. The 5-foot-4 woman argued that the state's requirement that police officers are at least five-feet, seven-inches tall discriminated against women, who as a group have a lower average height.

On Wednesday, acting on the petition of city Corporation Counsel Joseph Spano, the judge lifted the injunction and ruled that Spano must have two days' notice if a new injunction were sought.

The court papers in the latest development in the case showed that the agility test involved a quarter-mile run, five pull-ups, a six-foot standing broad jump and a 3-foot-3 high jump.

Miss Wagner cleared the high jump bar at the required height, the papers said, but had some problems with the rest of the tests. Her broad jump effort and the quarter-mile run didn't meet the required standards and she said "no" to the pull-ups because her doctor reportedly advised her that the exercise "would be injurious to a woman's internal organs."

The Other Day

Michael Leopold

We read that military saluting started in primitive times as a gesture of defeat. The vanquished showed their submission by taking off their helmets to the victors. Gun salutes were originally made to show that the guns had been made harmless. Old sailing ships struck their topsails to show they would not be able to maneuver quickly to attack the saluted ship. The old Navy salute was lifting the cap from the head, and was used until Queen Victoria saw sailors standing in the rain with their caps off to salute her. She ordered that thereafter a touch of the visor was all that would be necessary. We salute you and offer really top value!

CATSKILL, plunged off Route 296, dropping 30 feet to the Schoharie Creek bed in the Town of Hunter.

A 29-year-old Greene County man was fatally injured Wednesday when a dump truck loaded with dirt fell he was driving went out of control and poles and caused power outages in wide areas in the Town of New Paltz and Hurley. The drivers of the vehicles suffered serious injuries.

The victim of the Greene County fatal mishap was Filippo Paolucci, of Hunter. He was operating a truck down a steep hill on Route 296 when the brakes apparently failed. The vehicle sped across Route 23A and crashed through guard rails, then reportedly traveled 40 feet through the air before it dropped 30 feet to the bank of the creek.

The driver was taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital in Catskill by the Hunter First Aid and Rescue Squad. He died about four hours after the mishap.

Coroner Henry Millsbaugh, who investigated with Leeds

Trooper C. E. Stuart, gave a finding of accidental death due to multiple injuries.

Shortly before 1:30 a.m. today, Thomas DeWitt Browning, 25, of 4202 Milford Mill Road, Baltimore, Md., reportedly escaped death when the car he was driving disintegrated after smashing through guard rails and severing a utility pole on Route 28 near Glenford.

Ulster Sheriff's Department First Sergeant Donald Policastro, who investigated with Deputy Willard Bound and Donald Van Aken, said Browning was westbound at an apparent high speed when the vehicle went out of control and went through guard rails before hitting and snapping off a utility pole six feet above the ground.

Browning was reportedly thrown 68 feet from the car, and the motor was hurled 104 feet from the point of impact, Policastro said. A power shoveler blacked out a large area in the Town of Hurley.

Browning was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance. He suffered multiple lacerations and contusions of the body and a possible skull fracture, police said.

The West Hurley Fire Department in charge of Chief Robert Carle was dispatched to the scene to extinguish flames that swept the vehicle.

A 24-year-old State University College student at New Paltz was seriously injured shortly after 11:30 p.m. Wednesday when his car went out of control on Springtown Road, Town of New Paltz, and knocked down utility pole causing a power outage that covered a large area.

New Paltz Town Police reports noted that James G. Diana of 385 Buffalo Avenue, Lindenhurst, sustained multiple injuries. As the pole broke and dropped it carried high tension electric wires with it. Two technicians from the Fatum's Ambulance Service, Joseph Hill and Richard Roushnia worked with town police and a physician for more than half an hour before they succeeded in extricating Diana from the wrecked vehicle that was covered with 'live' electric wires.

An ambulance technician said Diana suffered internal injuries, multiple lacerations, fractured ribs and possible fractures of the skull and pelvis. The student was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance.

Two Seized In Slaying Of Professor

NEW YORK (AP) — Two brothers sought in the knife slaying of an esteemed Columbia University law professor were seized seven hours apart on separate Manhattan street corners, police said.

Police said the capture of Steven Robinson, 22, early today and David Robinson, 16, Wednesday night had solved the case of the fatal stabbing of Professor Wolfgang G. Friedmann on a Harlem street Sept. 20.

A third suspect in the daylight mugging murder, 16-year-old Daniel Minguez, was arrested less than 24 hours after the crime and a 13-state alarm had been issued for the brothers.

The older Robinson, who has a previous record of felony arrests, was taken into custody about 2:30 a.m. at West 127th Street and Eighth Avenue by two Housing Authority detectives assigned to the case.

Police said the Robinson brothers had spent the week together at an undisclosed location in Harlem and they theorized that Steven had decided to find a new hiding place after his brother turned himself in.

Both youths were being held at the 100th Street stationhouse.

Candidate To Appeal
ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—A Conservative party candidate who hopes to unseat Rep. John G. Dow, D-Newburgh, in November with a second line on the ballot will take his case now to the Appellate Division.

Yale Rapkin lost a round Wednesday when Supreme Court Justice Edward S. Conway ruled he had not filed for the additional spot on the ballot within the required time.

The appeal was filed immediately, and will be heard Oct. 5.

Conway did overrule Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo in saying that there were sufficient valid signatures on Rapkin's petitions for nomination under an independent party.

Frank Parise of Kingston; two Dominick of Saugerties; two sisters, Mrs. Ernest (Lillian) Perry of Kingston; Mrs. Anthony (Mary) Sisco of East Kingston; three brothers, John, James and Eugene Berardi, all of Kingston; 27 grandchildren, 19 great grandchildren, several nieces and nephews also survive. Funeral will be held from the Frank H. Simpson Funeral Home, 411 Albany Avenue, Saturday at 9 a.m., thence to St. Colman's Church where at 10 a.m. a Mass of the Resurrection will be offered. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home today 7 to 9 and Friday 2 to 4 and 7 to 9.

KINGSTON on proposed new regulations aimed at achieving better air quality will be held Oct. 26 in Kingston.

The 10 a.m. meeting will be held in the Governor Clinton Hotel. Following hearings will be in New York, Buffalo, proposed regulations:

— Promulgation of a new set to control particulate emissions of emission limits for sulfur in New York City. A joint dioxine in four of the state's federal-state-city emissions seven air quality control survey in the city's five regions, including stringent restrictions in the Hudson Valley north of New York City to attain the primary standards necessary "to safeguard human health."

— Establishment of nitrogen oxide limits that will affect all large boilers and furnaces in present use in the New York City, Buffalo, and Rochester areas.

The EPA also gave its approval to the state's strategy document.

'71 Parks Attendance Lower

BEAR MOUNTAIN The 6,995 acres taken over by PIPIC for the new Minnewaska State Park in southern Ulster County represented almost all of the land acquisition during the year. The new park had no effect on attendance or vehicle use figures, however, since PIPIC did not take title to the park until Dec. 21, 1971.

The Senate House in Kingston and Bristol Beach State Park in Saugerties are other units in this area operated by PIPIC. Visitor figures at the Senate House, along with Washington's Headquarters in Newburgh and Knox Headquarters in Vails Gate decreased during the year 9.1 per cent.

LAXITY CAN BREED LIABILITY when you sell your GI mortgaged home. Even though you sell it, you may still be liable for the obligation if a release from liability is not obtained, and the new owner defaults on the GI loan. This can be so, even though the new owner assumes personal liability for repayment. Best bet is to obtain a release from personal liability in writing from the VA. This should be done before signing a sales contract. Remember laxity in obtaining the release could make you potentially liable for any balance on the mortgage should the new owner default. If you're thinking of selling your GI mortgaged home get the details and assistance in obtaining a release from liability by contacting this office. It's located at County Office Building, Kingston, New York. Office hours: Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Important News About the News Media for Advertisers and Agencies

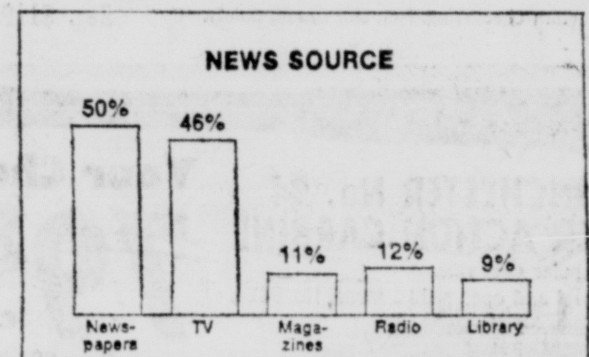

Today as never before, Americans need information—about events, about people, about products. Read how they use the news media to meet this need.

In March, 1971, Opinion Research Corporation was commissioned to find out how Americans gather the information they need to conduct their daily lives.

Here, from a nationwide sample of 2,023 men and women age 18 and over, are some of the key findings of that research.

1. When people want to find out about news they are very much interested in, they rely on the newspaper more than any other medium.

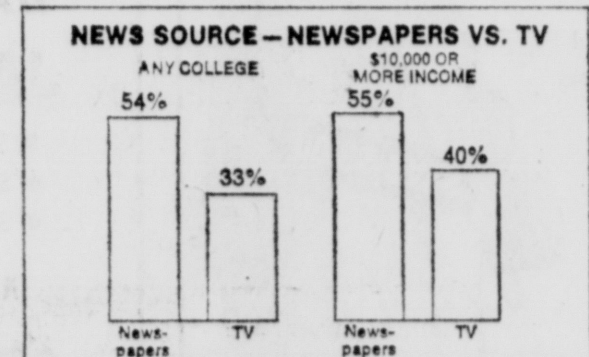

Opinion Research Corporation asked: "Suppose there is some news you are very much interested in. Where would you be most likely to find out all there is about it?" Here's how people answered:

Clearly, newspapers are America's prime medium for news. Only television comes close, and as we shall see, television does not come close among your best customers.

2. The newspapers' lead over television is greatest among the people advertisers want to reach most.

Asked the same question about news, people who had attended college named newspapers over television by a substantial 54% to 33% margin. Those with incomes of $10,000 or more gave newspapers a 55% to 40% advantage over television. Thus:

The high-spending 30-49 age group chose newspapers over television by 56% to 45%. Even among the 18-29 age group, supposedly "the television generation," newspapers were named as the news source for 46% of the sample compared to 40% for television.

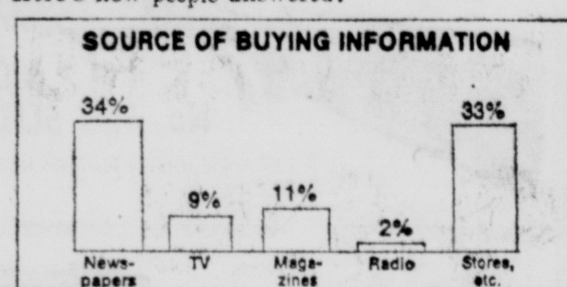

In fact, television led only among those with less than a high school education (55% to 43%), those with incomes under $5,000 (53% to 43%) and those age 50 or over (51% to 48%).

Your best customers, then, rely very heavily on newspapers for their news. But that's not all. Read on.

3. When people are ready to buy, they turn to newspapers for the facts they need by more than 3 to 1 over any other news medium.

Opinion Research Corporation asked: "When you are ready to buy something, where are you most likely to find the kind of advertising that gives you the facts you want to know?"

Here's how people answered:

Obviously, when people actually start shopping for something in your product category, your advertisement had better be in the newspaper.

4. The most desirable prospects prefer newspapers over television even more strongly as a source of advertising information.

Among those with at least some college, newspapers outsourced television by 27% to 4%.

People with incomes of $10,000 or more named newspapers over television by 30% to 6%.

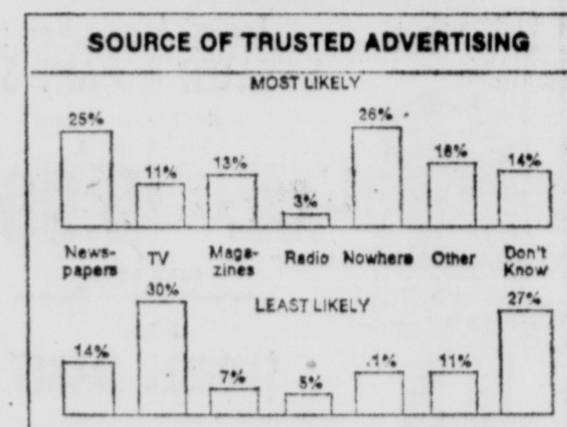

Among young adults (ages 18-29), newspapers led television by 28% to 6%.

Even among television's "best customers" (low-income, low education, age 50 and over), newspapers had a better than 2½ to 1 advantage.

No question about it. The more desirable the customer, the more likely he or she is to be looking for your advertisement—literally looking for it—in the newspaper.

5. People trust advertising in newspapers far more than in any other medium.

Opinion Research Corporation asked: "Where are you personally most likely to find advertising that can be trusted? And where are you least likely to?" Here's how people answered:

Trust in advertising is concentrated in newspapers, while distrust is even more strikingly concentrated on television. With today's growing need for believability, advertisers who use newspapers to carry their messages are getting an important advantage over television.

6. Key demographic groups trust newspaper advertising overwhelmingly compared to television advertising.

Once again, the better-educated, higher-income, more youthful groups give newspapers the widest margin over television.

	Most likely to find advertising that can be trusted		Least likely to find advertising that can be trusted
	Newspapers	TV	Newspapers	TV
Any college:	20%	5%	15%	42%
$10,000 + income:	23%	6%	13%	37%
Age 18-29:	21%	7%	17%	38%

These more sophisticated groups are far more suspicious of television, far more likely to believe what they see in a newspaper advertisement.

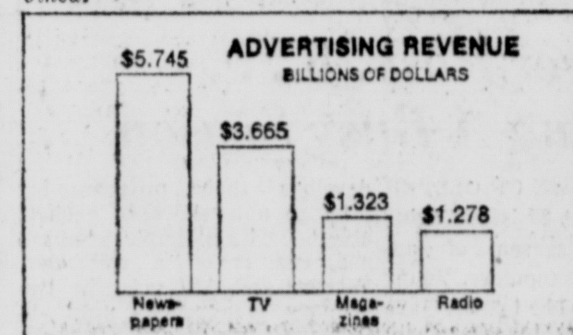

To summarize: Americans rely on the newspaper as their most complete, most trustworthy source of information, whether it is news or advertising. And the better the education and income level, the more this is true.

The findings of the Opinion Research Corporation are strongly confirmed by other equally unbiased statistical data.

Simmons '70, for example, reports that 78 out of every 100 adult Americans read at least one newspaper on the average weekday, far more than are exposed to any other news medium. Simmons also confirms the newspaper's leadership among "best customer" groups, too: daily readership is 87% among college graduates, 84% among those earning $10,000 or more, 86% among under-25 married couples.

While television ratings have dropped over the past five years, the newspaper business has never been healthier. In 1970, circulation increased to a record daily average of 62,107,527.

Advertising revenue is growing still faster. In fact, newspaper advertising revenue has consistently outpaced even the massive growth of the Gross National Product since 1945. In 1970, advertisers spent $5,745,000,000 on newspaper advertising, $3,665,000,000 on television, $1,323,000,000 in magazines, and $1,278,000,000 on radio. To put it another way, advertisers spent almost as much in newspapers, as in TV, magazines and radio combined.

Further, preliminary figures show that for the first 8 months of 1971 newspaper advertising revenues increased 6.6% overall, with national advertising up an impressive 12.7%.

As an advertising or marketing man, you might want to take an especially hard look at that last figure. Even national advertisers, wedded so long to the computerized cost per thousand efficiencies of television, are once again realizing that their customers are flesh-and-blood people rather than mere numbers. And that—as the Opinion Research Corporation study shows—the way people use the mass media is at least as important to an advertiser as simple exposure to advertising messages alone.

Retailers, whose advertising must produce traceable results in a day or two, have never forgotten this stern fact. They cannot hide behind exposure figures: they must have sales. That is why department stores quite wisely spend an overwhelming 80% of their advertising budgets in newspapers.

If you are not taking advantage of the newspaper's unique place in your customers' lives and overwhelmingly strong position as the Number One medium for news information and advertising information, let us show you how newspaper advertising can help you.

Tillson Scouters On Weekend Hike

During the weekend of Sept. 16-17, Scout troop 17 of Tillson hiked from Winnesook Lodge at the base of Slide Mountain in the Catskills, over Slide, Cornell and Wittenberg mountains to complete their hike Saturday night at the Woodland Valley State Campgrounds. Sunday morning the Scouts did a good turn at the State Campgrounds by raking up the public picnic area and cleaning out the charcoal grills.

Scouts participating in the overnight hike were Frank Ellerbrock, Kevin and Michael Fairbrother, Richard and Ronald Goss, John and Richard Lenz, Thomas McElrath, John Naccarato, Daniel Ramus and Scoutmaster John Lenz.

Scout Troop 17 is sponsored by the Tillson - Rosendale American Legion Post No. 1219. Scout Troop 17, of Tillson recently went on a canoe trip in the Adirondack Region, where they earned a 50-Miler award.

The boys paddled 50 miles in the vicinity of Long Lake, did 10 hours of conservation work while en route, and at the conclusion of their journey, turned in their canoes for motor boats and a speed boat and for the remaining four days of their stay worked on their Motor-Boating and Water Skiing merit badges.

Scouts participating were Robert DeSimone, Richard and Ronald Goss, John and Richard Lenz, Charles Lewis, Eric Luiggi, Thomas McElrath, Richard Muenkel, and John Naccarato. Adult leaders were: Scoutmaster John Lenz and Assistant Scoutmaster Raymond Luiggi.

Troop 17 is sponsored by Tillson-Rosendale American Legion Post 1219.

Catholic Retreat At Camp Tri-Mount

The Catholic committee on scouting for the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America announced today its annual Catholic Scout retreat. This year's retreat was held at Camp Tri-Mount from Friday night, Sept. 22 through Sunday, Sept. 24.

This year's retreat director was Father Maurice Meyers, S.J., who has been a scouting chaplain for more than 20 years. Father Meyers, an avid camper and hiker in his own area, is always ready for scouting and ready also to be known as a priest.

Why a retreat for scouts — the simplest answer is "a scout is reverent" and this is one way for scouts to live up to this point of the scout law. Also, it gave scouts an opportunity to get away from the noisy, busy world for a while and to let them concentrate on something special.

During the retreat, scouts had the opportunity of working with, and worshipping with, Father Meyers as they tried to concentrate on the very special mission of the Christian today.

In addition, this year the Hudson Delaware Council of the Boy Scouts of America joined in the retreat so there was the opportunity of sharing the retreat experience with new friends.

In addition to the retreat, a Catholic scout development program will be offered for adult scouts. Any adults who are interested in participating in this program are urged to contact Father LeBar.

Marbletown Cub Pack 16 To Hold Roundup Friday

Marbletown Cub Scout Pack 16 Round-up will be held at the Marbletown Elementary School Rt. 213 Friday, Sept. 29, at 7:30 p.m. Boys, living in the Town of Marbletown, who are eight to 10 years old and interested in being a part of the Scouting program, are invited to come and bring their parents.

Dens will be formed at this meeting and any new boys not registered at this time will be accepted when den openings occur. The Cub Scout theme and objectives will be presented and discussed and refreshments served.

All boys who are registered will be given pinewood derby car kits to be assembled and then raced at the November Pack meeting. If you are interested, but cannot attend the Round-up contact Cubmaster Al Petrozak.

Explorer Post 25 ... Mapping A Busy Season

TOWN OF ULSTER develops their programming skills to a level where each is able to write a simple program and run it on a computer. Portran and APL are the two primary languages used to "explore" this area.

The Post, sponsored by IBM, Kingston, is known as a special-purpose post. It meets three times a month at the IBM plant. The first scheduled meeting for this season was Sept. 12. The next meeting was held Sept. 19.

Several openings are available for those young men and women interested in the computer field. Applicants may contact Bill Poythress.

Explorer Post 25 is preparing for another season of adventures with computers. Young adults, ages 14 to 21, are planning to get together with IBM engineers and programmers to "explore" computer sciences. The activities planned include computer programming and basic electronics.

Following a short organizational meeting the Explorers divide into two specialty groups. One group works with computer-related devices such as adders and counters. The second group

Co. A Young Marines Resume Drills on Monday

KINGSTON Company A of the Ulster County Young Marines will resume regular drill sessions starting Monday, Oct. 2 at 7 p.m. in the George Washington School gymnasium.

John Ray Mayone, commanding officer, in announcing the drill schedule noted that the location has been changed from the previous meeting place, the Kate Walton Fieldhouse. It is anticipated that the company will use the school site for the entire winter season. Officers of Company A which encompasses the City of Kingston area, include Captain Frank Bell, recruit officer; Lieutenants Philip Samson and Ralph Clark, training officers.

An extensive city-wide recruiting drive is planned and boys from 8 to 11 years of age are invited to come to a drill session to observe Young Marines in action. Membership is open to any boy, there are no dues and the only cost involved is for uniforms. New members will undergo a 10-week boot camp in which they are taught military discipline, courtesy and marching

Journalist Slates Talk

A nationally syndicated financial journalist will probe an often neglected side of the consumer movement as a featured speaker at the 41st Annual Convention of the N.Y.S. Council of Retail Merchants, Oct. 1-4, at the Granit II Hotel, Accord.

Robert S. Rosefsky, whose column on consumer finances is distributed nationwide by the Los Angeles Times Syndicate, will discuss what he feels is the growing imbalance between consumers' "rights" and the interest of retailers and other producers and their role in the country's economy, in a speech entitled, "Who's Watching the Watchdogs?"

A graduate of Yale University and the Syracuse University Law School and a native of Binghamton, Rosefsky in 1970 won the "Oscar" of his profession, first prize in the John Hancock Awards for Excellence in Financial Journalism. He has written several books dealing with consumer finances and has published a series of consumer education books, "Speaking Dollar-Wise."

Rosefsky will be the featured speaker at a convention dinner meeting, Monday night, Oct. 2.

Principal speaker at the banquet concluding the convention, Oct. 3, will be Mrs. Virginia H. Knauer, President Nixon's Special Assistant for Consumer Affairs and Director of the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs.

Ellenville Foster Children ... State Slates Hearing

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE — A hearing before the State Commissioner of Education to determine who pays for the education of foster children in the Ellenville Schools District will be held Oct. 17, according to Ellenville Board of Education Attorney Benjamin Lonsstein.

Lonsstein announced the hearing Tuesday. He said a hearing supposed to have been held this month had been postponed.

The cost of educating foster children is presently borne by the Ellenville district. A large number of foster children attend Ellenville schools. Superintendent of Schools Thomas Hayden said as of Wednesday 92 foster children were attending school in the district.

This is an increase of about a dozen over the approximately 80 foster children who attended the district's schools last school year.

The majority of the foster children come from Westchester County, with some foster children coming from parents who live in Ulster and Rockland Counties.

The Ellenville District is seeking to have the home school district, or the social service agency who sends the foster child, to pay tuition to the Ellenville district.

The district sought for much of the last school year to get the home districts to pay the tuition. This summer tuition bills and a letter advising the foster parent to make the receipt of the bill known to the agency placing the child were sent out to the district's foster parents.

With a single exception, the tuition has not been paid, but the foster children were allowed in the schools pending a decision in the matter.

Tuition is $740 for a student K-6, and $846 for a student 7-12.

The single exception according to Hayden, to the non-payment of tuition is from the Rockland County Department of Social Services. Hayden said that department has agreed to pay the tuition for a child it placed in the Ellenville District, and Hayden said the child had formally been admitted to the district.

Ulster and Westchester Counties have filed a formal appeal of the tuition bills, and their appeal will be subject of the Oct. 17 hearing.

Hayden said the purpose of the tuition charging was not to hurt the children but to "establish the principle, the proper way." He said it was the feeling of the district that the district should not have to bear the whole cost of educating children originating from outside the district.

He said there were many cases of close relatives, such as grandmothers, aunts, or uncles who tried to enroll children in the district, but Hayden said they had to be turned down unless they were appointed formal legal guardians, or agreed to pay tuition.

New Paltz Town Board Plans Traffic Attack

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ — The New Paltz Town Board intends to initiate a two-pronged attack on the town's traffic problem at its October regular meeting, according to Supervisor Anthony J. Moriello.

Moriello said Wednesday that the board planned to approve the construction of an extension of Fulton Road to North Putt Corners Road, and take steps to set up a special improvement district to improve the intersection and put up a traffic light at the entrance of Simmons Plaza on Route 299, at the October meeting.

The Fulton Road extension was recommended by the town's planning consultant, James Spratt, to give the town another east-west through street. Spratt's recommendation was based on a traffic survey he conducted for the town last winter.

Moriello said Wednesday that one of the two necessary right-of-ways for the Fulton Road extension had been secured, and the other was under negotiation. He said the board hoped to have the right-of-way in hand for the October board meeting.

Fulton Road when fully extended, will run from Route 32 North to North Putt Corners Road. The North Putt Corners Road connection will be made by the town. The Route 32 North connection lies in the Village of New Paltz, and has been in the works for some time. A present hold up in the village connection is the opposition of senior citizens to having the through street run through the Urban Development Corporation senior citizens' housing project being proposed for Church Street.

At Monday night's village board meeting, Trustee John Logan said an alternate routing for the village's Fulton Road extension had been proposed by UDC, and was being studied by the village engineers.

Moriello said Wednesday that construction of the town Fulton Road extension, after the board approved it, could begin this fall, depending on the work schedule of Superintendent of Highways David Decker's department. The supervisor said the extension would be completed by the end of next summer, no matter when construction started.

The light at Simmons Plaza would help solve one of the town's greatest traffic bottlenecks. The town presently has a special traffic patrolman, Robert Gabrielli, stationed there during the rush hour. The problem is the heavy flow of traffic on Route 299, New Paltz' Main Street, combined with turns into and out of Simmons Plaza and Cherry Hill Road.

Moriello said a state traffic survey, also conducted last winter, showed a light was justified. However, the state won't pay for it. The special improvement district the town intends to set up will, Moriello said, with all other work completed, when the light arrived.

He also said when the land to the north of Simmons Plaza was developed, an exit onto the new Fulton Road extension would be required, funneling traffic away from heavily traveled Route 299. He said the developer would have to pay for building the exit road.

According to town zoning regulations, new businesses along Route 299 are required to set back from the road to allow an additional lane to be built when it is needed.

Marist Hosting Conference

POUGHKEEPSIE — Marist College will be hosting the annual Region II conference of the Association of College Unions-International beginning today and will run until Saturday. Two hundred delegates from more than 50 colleges and universities are expected to participate.

The conference will examine college union operations and programming. Delegates will include college union directors, vice president for conference activities personnel and undergraduate students representing colleges and universities in New York State and Canada.

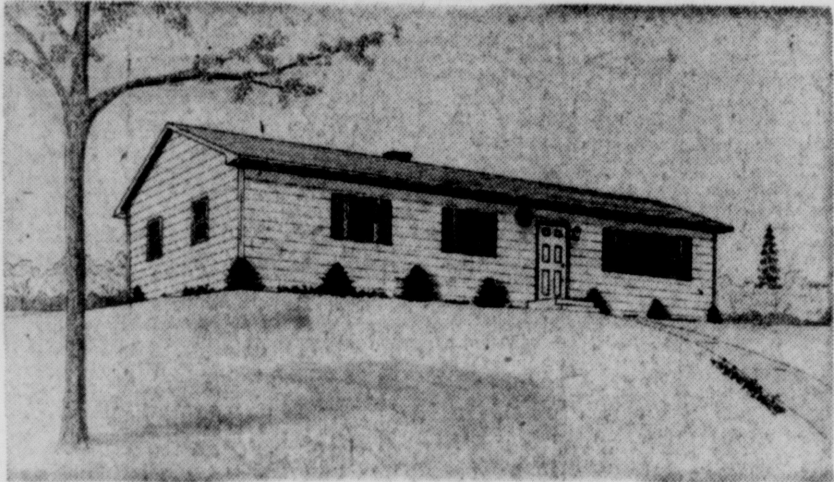

William Spelman, director of the college union at Alfred University (SUNY) and the association's vice president for regional affairs, will give the keynote address on Friday evening. The Saturday luncheon speaker will be Ronald Loomis, director of Willard Straight Hall at Cornell and the association's vice president for conference programs.

The Marist conference will include workshops on programming, special projects, union operations and professional development. In addition, special sessions will be offered to delegates from two-year, private and Canadian colleges, as well as to professional staff, women and minorities.

Jack C. Simeone, president of the college union board at Marist, is conference chairman. Campus center director Joseph Brosnan is the host director.

Postmaster Issues Appeal

KINGSTON the nation, said Newkirk. Locally, 85 per cent of the mail handled bears a Zip Code. Newkirk has issued an appeal to all city residents to be sure to use Zip Codes when mailing cards, letters and packages.

"Good mail service is a local, as well as national concern," said Newkirk, "and good mail service is only possible when people use Zip Codes."

Newkirk pointed out that the U.S. Postal Service is expected to handle 89 billion pieces of mail this year (compared to 49 billion pieces in 1952). Because of the heavy increase in volume, new equipment had to be developed to handle the mail quickly and efficiently. "But in order for the machines to properly perform this operation," said Newkirk, "it is necessary that the mail be Zip Coded."

U.S. Postal Service figures indicate that 28 per cent of all private letters handled are not Zip Coded. A total of 7.8 billion pieces of mail, both business and private, do not bear Zip Codes. "none of this mail can be processed with the new high-speed equipment."

Kingston has a somewhat better average than the rest of the nation, said Newkirk. Locally, 85 per cent of the mail handled bears a Zip Code.

Newkirk offered commendations to persons who regularly include the Zip Code on letters they mail, and urged others to begin the practice. He also had praise for the New York Telephone Company, which devotes the first Yellow Page of each phone book to a Zip Code listing of the 45 post offices in Ulster County.

With the Christmas card season fast approaching, Newkirk continued, it is especially important for all mail to be Zip Coded. He urged all city residents to update their Christmas mailing list by sending the names and addresses to the Kingston Post Office. The proper Zip Code will be given for each address, and the list will then be returned. And, he added, persons needing information on one or two Zip Codes may call the Post Office for that information.

NEW JAIL — The completion of the exterior of the new county jail on Golden Hill was marked recently by the raising of a tree on the rooftop, a long standing tradition among construction workers. Shown at the site at the time of the tree raising were: (L) Horace Emerick, assistant clerk of the works; Sheriff William B. Martin, Al Barone, general contractor for Eugene Ossie, Inc., and John Ferro, a laborer who raised the tree with the help of fellow workers. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Clothing Drive

Zephaniah Chapter No. 399 of B'nai B'rith Women of Kingston are sponsoring a clothing drive to collect wearing apparel for residents of the Wassau State School. Clean clothing (no rummage) of all types and sizes, as well as shoes in good condition, are needed for children and adults.

Clothing should be packed in cartons for easy storage and mobility and brought to the Utica Club warehouse on Sawkill Road between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. on weekdays. Daniel Cronan, manager, has donated the use of this facility, plus a truck and driver, to deliver the clothes.

Major Events Planned

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Overlook United Methodist Church in Woodstock made plans for the major events of the coming year at its recent meeting.

Under the direction of Mrs. Edwin Secor, president, the group will hold a ladies luncheon on Monday, Oct. 16 at 12:30 p.m.; a Harvest Festival and Tea on Saturday, Nov. 11; and an annual rummage sale and chicken barbecue on June 9, 1973. Regular meetings are held on the second Monday of each month. All women of the congregation are invited to attend.

Turkey Supper

Marbletown Reformed Church of Stone Ridge will sponsor a turkey supper on Saturday, Oct. 7. Servings will be at 5, 6 and 7 p.m. The menu will consist of turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes, gravy, cranberry relish, green beans, cole slaw, creamed onions, apple and pumpkin pies. The public is invited.

Meeting Scheduled
Women's Christian Society of Kerhonkson Federated Church will meet Wednesday, Oct. 4, at 1 p.m. at the church.

Distaff Digest

To Meet Tuesday
The Town of Esopus Senior Citizens will meet Tuesday, Oct. 3 at the Town Hall at 1:30 p.m. Plans for the anniversary luncheon on Oct. 5 at the Capri Restaurant will be completed. Newly elected officers will be installed at the luncheon.

Rummage Sale
The Ladies Auxiliary of Koenig Athletic Club will sponsor a rummage sale Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 23 at American Legion Hall, 18 West O'Reilly Street, Kingston. Hours are Monday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 6:30 to 8:30, and Tuesday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

PWP Activities
Parents Without Partners, Chapter No. 383, will hold a dance Friday, Oct. 6 at Villa Lipina in New Paltz beginning at 9:30 p.m. A family roller skating party is planned for Sunday, Oct. 8 at Hudson Skat-a-rama, Route 9. Those planning to attend should meet at Caldors parking lot at 1 p.m. Detailed information about both events is available by contacting PWP, Lomontville.

Women's Symposium

By JEANNINE YEOMANS
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "You can be a sensuous woman and think too," says author Liz Carpenter, as she joins women ranging from columnist Sylvia Porter to Lynda Johnson Robb in arguing against what they call "myths" about the women's movement.

"It's a ridiculous myth that the women's movement defeminizes us," said Mrs. Carpenter, an author, public relations executive and former press secretary to Lady Bird Johnson.

"Women who oppose the movement betray their own ignorance," she said Thursday, speaking during an all-day symposium on women in the economy attended by some 200 California women.

She characterized women who oppose the movement as "slaves passing a mint julep to the massa" when the rest of us are out in the fields picking cotton.

Others said the myths envision that women are emotional and impulsive shoppers, that they have high absenteeism and turnover rates in jobs and that all men dislike female bosses.

Mrs. Robb described how she was turned down for credit in a Washington, D.C., grocery store because her husband was a law student without a job, even though she was working as a writer for a national magazine.

"They didn't care about my income," said the daughter of former President Lyndon B. Johnson. "It was only my husband's that counted."

Criticizing news media handling of the women's liberation topic, Virginia A. Caraballo, vice president of the National Organization for Women, said:

"We never burned a single bra when we were being called bra burners, and all we were really interested in were the real bread and butter issues."

Because even some women believe the myths, said Madeline Mixer of the U.S. Department of Labor, they too often preface description of discrimination against women by saying:

"I'm not a women's libber, but..."

Mrs. Carpenter said it was "obscene that a nation filled with qualified women" has only one per cent of all working women earning more than $15,000 a year.

Both Mrs. Carpenter and Mrs. Porter said a major problem is that tradition has bred women to be underconfident even if they are highly talented.

"Men are made anxious by failure and women are made anxious by success," said Mrs. Carpenter, quoting feminist Susan Davies.

Kingston LWV Plans School Visits

The League of Women Voters of Kingston is planning informal visits to schools in the area to provide information to new voters.

Visits will be: Kingston High School, today from 9:20 to 10:00 a.m.; Ulster Academy, Friday, 8:30 a.m.; Ulster County Community College, Thursday, Oct. 5 from 9:20 to 10:00 a.m.; and Coleman High School, Tuesday, Oct. 17 from 9:20 to 10:00 a.m. With the exception of Ulster Academy, where there will be one presentation; students may drop in to the League room during their free time.

League members will make available Facts for Voters, which explains the four issues on the November 1972 ballot, the duties of those on the ballot, and New York State election information; will demonstrate the use of the voting machine and answer any questions.

To vote, a person must be a U.S. citizen by birth or naturalization; 18 years of age on or before November; a resident of the county, city or village in New York State for 30 days as of November 7 and be registered.

There will be special registration days in each town and the City of Kingston on Saturday, Sept. 30 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Monday, Oct. 2 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Tuesday, Oct. 10 from noon until 10 p.m.

If a person is not already registered or if he has changed his address since the last time he voted, or if he did not vote in either November 1970 or November 1971 and has not reinstated his registration by mail, he may register during local registration.

The LWV is a non partisan organization open to women of voting age. For further information write Kingston League of Women Voters, UPO Box 564, Kingston.

Diane Kithcart Weds L.S. Hymes

Diane Marie Kithcart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Kithcart Sr. of 235 Salem Street, Port Ewen, became the bride of Leslie S. Hymes, son of Mrs. Edna M. Hymes of 4 Park Street, Kingston, on Saturday, Sept. 23.

The Rev. John H. Gilmore of Riverview Baptist Church officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Jeanette Washington, organist, accompanied Miss Rita Horvath who sang traditional wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a white organdy gown with embroidered bodice. She carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums.

Miss Carol Strong of Kingston was maid of honor in a mint green chiffon gown accented with green and white embroidery. The gown featured daisy trim on the white bodice and was styled with long chiffon sleeves.

Attendants were Marsha Bassett, aunt of the bride, Kingston; Laura Calfalio, Ulster Park; Dawn Kithcart, sister of the bride, Port Ewen; Joanne VandeMark, cousin of the bride, Kingston; Rosena Loper, sister of the bridegroom, Poughkeepsie.

Their orchid gowns were similar in styling to that worn by the honor attendant. They carried matching daisy bouquets.

Diedre and Eileen Bassett, cousins of the bride, were flower girls in light green chiffon gowns with white daisy trim. They carried daisies to match the gowns of the bridal party.

Charles D. Bassett Jr. of Kingston, uncle of the bride, served as best man. Ushering were Larry Dunn, Sunset Park; Keith Hymes, brother of the bridegroom, Kingston; Ronald Curtiss, Sunset Gardens; James VandeMark, Kingston; Gary Kithcart, brother of the bride, Port Ewen; Alphonso Knox Jr., godchild and cousin of the bride, was ringbearer.

A reception was held at Walnut Grove, Kingston.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, is employed by New York Telephone Company. Her husband, an alumnus of KHS and Delhi College, is employed by H.C. Pantel.

When they return from their wedding trip to Canada and Brooklyn, they will reside at 92 Emerick Street, Kingston.

Bruck-Flowers Wedding at St. Peter's Church

Hilda G. Bruck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Bruck of 99 West O'Reilly Street, Kingston, became the bride of Larry F. Flowers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Flowers of 61½ Downs Street, Kingston, Saturday, Sept. 9 at St. Peter's Church in Kingston.

The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly of St. Mary's Church officiated at the double ring ceremony. Ann Goldrick, organist, accompanied Richard Scherer who sang traditional wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride selected a gown of silk crepe fashioned with a square neckline and long tapered sleeves. Scalloped hand-clipped Venice lace edged the neckline and created a bib effect on the front and back bodice. Similar lace trimmed the hem of the draped A-line skirt, sleeves and chapel length train. Matching lace edged her custom designed Camelot cap and cathedral length mantilla. She carried a sweetheart cascade of white bridal roses and lavender and white daisies.

Romey Morse of Port Ewen, cousin of the bride, was honor attendant. Attendants were Karen Naccarato of Hurley and Ruth Bradford of Greenwich, Conn. Karen Flowers, sister of the bridegroom, Kingston, was junior bridesmaid.

All attendants were gowned alike in orchid and white voile. The gowns featured a wallpaper print design with vertical stripes centered with tiny pink flowers, and were trimmed with white Venice lace. They wore fresh flowers arranged in their hair and carried white crown baskets of lavender, pink and white daisies.

Garry Flowers, brother of the bridegroom, Kingston, was best man. Ushers were Walter McCombs, Lexington, Ky.; Richard Kellahan, Eglin Air Force Base in Florida; Patrick Harder, cousin of the bride, Hurley, junior usher.

A reception was given at Flamingo Restaurant Saugerties.

The bride, a 1968 graduate of Kingston High School, received an Associate of Arts degree from Ulster County Community College in 1970. She was a June graduate from Springfield College, Springfield, Mass. where she received a Bachelor of Science degree in Elementary Education.

Her husband, a 1967 alumnus of KHS, received a BS degree in Physical Education from the Citadel, the Military College of the South in South Carolina. He is a master's degree candidate in Physical Education at Springfield College.

When they return from a wedding trip through the New England States, they will reside at Fairchild Air Force Base, Spokane, Wash.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

A hand puppet given to my children as a gift has helped us start a miniature "school" to while away many hours of rainy day inactivity.

The puppet is a bear. We call him the "writing bear" because he only knows how to write. I've also found that, although I'm no great shakes as a puppeteer, the bear can give advice that is often heeded with greater attention than if "only Mom" were saying the same things!

The children notice, for instance, that the bear is short. The bear replies, "Being short doesn't mean you're little. It's how you act that decides how little you are. If you act big, even if you're short, people will think of you as being big."

One boy pushes the other away to write something on the commandeered tablet. The bear can ask, "why do you push your brother away from the tablet? Don't you know that I want to watch your brother write as well as watch you write?"

If Mom had said it, it would have sounded like a sermon and no one would have listened. Since the bear said it, we immediately get an earnest conversation about why it's better to take turns and share.

Dear Heloise:

An old tooth brush is great to use for scrubbing around the sink faucets and for a nail brush, but—Watch It! I was interrupted once while brushing my teeth. Then I came back and picked up the wrong brush.

Olga B.

Dear Heloise:

Because of an asthmatic child in our house, we have had to use plastic covers on our mattresses.

When the plastic covers begin to wear out and I'm not able to replace them immediately, I patch up the tears with leftover pieces of adhesive-backed paper.

This really works well. It's washable and helps the covers last longer.

Mrs. Karl

Dear Heloise:

After baking some cupcakes yesterday, I found there wasn't going to be quite enough icing.

Not wanting to make more icing for the remaining few cakes, I put seven or eight chocolate bits on each cupcake, popped them back in the oven for a few minutes, then spread the softened chocolate with a knife.

Mary Lou

Dear Heloise:

I haven't read anything in your column pertaining to avoiding hanger creases in trousers. Here is what I do:

Lay the trousers flat. Insert the hanger between the pant legs. Fold the lower leg over the hanger so the cuff is on the inside. Do the same thing with the upper leg, folding it evenly over the other leg.

By folding the pant legs over the hanger this way, the trousers can not slip off the hanger and fall on the floor.

One should use the covered wire hangers. To make a bigger roll on the hanger, that inner cardboard tube from a roll of paper towels could be fastened on the wire hanger!

Jane R.

THIS COLUMN is written for you... the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of this newspaper. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

Attractive Woman Seeks Lawyer for 'Legal' Advice

DEAR ABBY: Believe it or not, my husband of 10 years left me and our two beautiful children for our baby sitter! It wasn't easy to accept, but I have decided to make the best of it.

I will say he made a very fair settlement. I get the deed to our new four-bedroom home, which is on 3½ acres of choice property, rental property which pays $30,000 a year, plus annuities for the children (ages 3 and 6) and a very nice cash settlement.

Now I am looking for a decent man. I prefer the athletic type between 35 and 45 who puts God first, family second and his job last.

There is a lawyer in town who is eligible, but I have never been introduced to him. I am told I am a good looking woman, and I am well built and know how to dress. I'm not exactly for free love, but I'm only 33, and I'm not dead yet.

How do I meet this lawyer without being too obvious?

"33 AND LOOKING"

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR "33": It seems to me that a woman in your position could use some "legal" advice. He's one man you could call up and make an appointment with, without much difficulty. All you may get is legal advice, for which you must pay—but it's worth a try.

DEAR ABBY: You are our last resort. Please help! My father (who lives with us) is 69, and he drives a large, fast car of which he is very proud. The problem is that his eyesight is failing and he won't admit it.

Dad hasn't had his eyes checked in five years. When we suggest a checkup, he flies into a rage and insists that he is the very best judge of his eyesight, and his eyes are perfect.

Abby, we have been with him countless times when he has unknowingly forced other motorists practically off the road, narrowly missed guard rails, and tailed dangerously close to the car ahead of him.

If anyone offers to drive, Dad gets upset and insists on having his way. Everyone who knows him will use almost any excuse to get out of riding with him.

Abby, he reads your column faithfully. Please tell him that he should consider the opinions and safety of others, and get his eyes checked, even though he thinks they are "perfect."

OUT OF EXCUSES

DEAR OUT: I'll wager your letter will be read (and heeded) by many who are younger than your dad, but could use the advice. I hope so.

DEAR ABBY: My mother in law has lived with us for nearly 20 years. She is over 80 now and I hope she lives to be 100.

In all the years Mother has been with us, she has never had any expenses. We've taken care of her housing, food, clothing—everything. She has banked her pension checks, and now she has a reasonably healthy bank account.

Now the question, and I hope this doesn't sound mean or grabby: should we ask her to share her pension check with us? Since Mother has paid no bills, I am sure she isn't aware how much the cost of living has gone up.

We have spent our lives and our income raising and educating our family. We have provided for our own retirement, and are not hard up, but we could use a little help.

We wouldn't hurt Mother for anything, and no matter what your answer is, we will continue taking the best of care of her as long as she lives. No name or town, please.

SIXTYFISH

DEAR SIXTYFISH: I'm sure the dear lady has not offered to share her pension check with you only because you have made her feel so completely "at home" that it never occurred to her—which is to your credit. Your reasons are sensible and valid, ask her.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L.A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

The End for Yanks, Birds?

By United Press International
They picked different ways to do it but, for all practical purposes, the Baltimore Orioles and the New York Yankees bowed out of the Eastern Division race Wednesday night. The Orioles lost a tidy 3-0 decision to Gaylord Perry and the Cleveland Indians while the Yankees blew a 5-0 lead, stranded 17 runners and were finally overhauled by the Detroit Tigers in the ninth inning 6-5. But the end result was the same. The Orioles and the Yankees are both 3-12 games off the pace with 71 losses while Boston, one-half game ahead, has 67 losses and Detroit has 68.

New York has six games left and Baltimore five and it would take a miracle now for either team to make it to the top.

That means Baltimore's three-year reign as American League champion is now all but over and it's a two-team battle between Boston and Detroit, who will meet each other next week in Detroit in the final three games of the season.

Boston stayed in first with a 7-5 afternoon victory over Milwaukee and then sat back to wait for the night action. The Detroit win had to be disappointing for the Red Sox because New York's chances already were remote and a Tiger loss would have given Boston a 1 1/2-game lead.

"That was the toughest game we've lost all season," Yankee Manager Ralph Houk said after the Tigers scored three runs in the eighth and two in the ninth to pin the loss on relief ace Sparky Lyle.

Singles by Ed Brinkman, Willie Horton and pinch-hitter Tony Taylor, who bunted, loaded the bases in the ninth and Al Kaline hit a sacrifice fly to tie the game 5-5. Duke Sims then singled in the deciding run.

The Yankees were upset because an 0-2 pitch on Kaline was called a ball instead of strike three. But Kaline said, "I hope they don't think that's why they lost the game. Didn't they leave 17 men on base?"

Lyle, who had saved 35 games, relieved Ron Kline with two on and one out in the eighth with New York leading 5-2. He gave up a run-scoring sacrifice fly to Mickey Stanley in that inning before suffering his fifth loss in the ninth. Gaylord Perry picked up his 23rd win with a seven-hitter while blanking the Orioles.

Loser Dave McNally was jolted for all three runs in the first inning as Chris Chambliss tripled in two and scored the other on Ray Fosse's single.

Perry got out of his biggest jam in the seventh when Boog Powell lined a shot to second with the bases loaded. "He really hit a slider and it goes to show that it takes luck in this game," Perry said.

Looking at the race, Perry said, "two weeks ago, I thought Baltimore was going to win but I think I favor Boston now."

A prime contender for the Cy Young award, Perry has pitched five shutouts and 28 complete games. "I hope my hat is in the ring for the Cy Young award," Perry said. "I've got four kids in school and I can use the money."

Reggie Smith doubled home two runs in the fifth inning and Luis Aparicio tripled in two more in the sixth to lead Boston past Milwaukee. The Red Sox were trailing 4-2 until the fifth when they erupted for three runs.

Aparicio said, "we're going to win it. I've been saying that for two months and now we're getting closer."

In the other games, Kansas City downed Chicago 4-2. California nipped Texas 3-1 and Oakland swept Minnesota 1-0 in 11 innings and 2-1 in 10 to reduce its magic number in the West to one.

Matty Alou doubled leading off the 11th inning and scored the only run of the game on Sal Bando's one-out double to give Oakland the first game victory over Minnesota.

In the second game Bando was also the hitting star as he singled in Alou in the 10th. John Mayberry's four hits, including a two-run homer and a triple, sparked Kansas City to the victory over the White Sox. Roger Nelson pitched a seven-hitter to outduel Wilbur Wood, who lost his 16th game against 24 wins.

Clyde Wright pitched a six-hitter to give California the victory over Texas. It was the 13th straight loss for Texas. Wright picked up his 17th win of the season.

Bench Rests By Himself

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
The Cincinnati Reds are the class of their division and Johnny Bench, responsible for much of his club's success this season, remains in a league of his own.

The Reds, who have already clinched the National League's Western Division, lost to the Atlanta Braves 8-5 Wednesday night despite Bench's 40th homer.

Bench, who leads the majors in homers, became the first catcher in major league history to ever hit 40 homers in one season. Bench slammed 45 in 1970, the same season he was selected the league's Most Valuable Player. Roy Campanella is the only other catcher to ever hit 40 or more homers in a season when he slammed 41 for the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1953.

Bench, who also plays third, first and the outfield, has helped the Reds take charge in the NL West with his all-around hitting and defensive play. The homer was his seventh in the past seven games.

Earl Williams, who earlier in the year complained that catching is too much of a mental strain and affects his hitting, responded to Manager Eddie Mathews' moving him to third base by slamming a home run. Hank Aaron also homered for Atlanta, his 33rd and the 62nd of his career.

In other National League action, Chicago romped past Montreal 8-0, Pittsburgh downed Philadelphia 3-1, St. Louis beat New York 4-0. Houston stopped San Francisco 3-0 and Los Angeles blanked San Diego 2-0.

Billy Williams unloaded the seventh grand slam home run of his career to highlight Chicago's win over Montreal. Williams hit his 36th homer in the fifth inning to give the Cubs a 5-0 lead. Previous to Williams' homer, Rick Reuschel and Don Kessinger had singled and Jose Cardenal had walked.

Williams, who has never won a batting title, home run or RBI crown in his long major league career, has an outside shot at all three this season. Williams leads the major leagues in batting and trails Bench in the NL home run and RBI derby.

Larry Howard drove in two runs with a homer and a single to lead Houston to victory over San Francisco.

Dave Cash drove in the decisive run with a fifth inning double to feature Pittsburgh's triumph over Philadelphia.

The Pirates' first run came in the second inning when Manny Sanguillen doubled and scored on Rennie Stennett's single. The Pirates scored the deciding run in the fifth when Stennett singled, was forced at second by Gene Alley and Cash doubled home Alley.

Joe Torre and Ted Simmons hit back-to-back singles and scored in the second inning to pace St. Louis' win over New York. St. Louis scored on singles by Mike Tyson and Jose Cruz, a sacrifice fly by Torre and a run scoring single by Simmons.

Don Sutton blanked San Diego on three hits to run his scoreless string to 33 innings as the Dodgers closed out their home schedule with a shutout of the Padres. It was Sutton's third shutout in a row and ninth of the season, enabling him to tie Nolan Ryan of the California Angels as the big league leader in that department.

Visitors Score With One Second Left

Quinnipiac Ties New Paltz, 2-2

NEW PALTZ clock ticked off time in the second half. Then, suddenly with only one second left in regulation time, the visitors scored again to tie the game 2-2 and that's the way it ended.

"I'm disappointed," Hawk Coach Bob Durkin said glumly, "not just because of the way they tied the game, but also because we just didn't play that well."

Things looked bright for New Paltz when Barry Forbes put the home side on the board with 30:02 to go in the first half. Forbes took a fine feed from Umaru Konteh and beat the Quinnipiac netminder.

Dave Pallotta made it 2-0 with 22:21 left as he found the cage on a goalmouth scramble. Quinnipiac struck back with its two late goals, both on plays which the Hawks seemingly let down on, figuring time would be on their side.

The first tally was by Tom Mount on a squibbler in front and the crusher was by Jim Richardson with that one tiny second left in the game.

"We had it all wrapped up 2-1," moaned Durkin. "Everybody just stood there and relaxed. We didn't mark our men. It was a tactical error."

Quinnipiac had come into the game with a 1-1 record, losing to powerful Keene State and beating Southern Connecticut. But the Braves didn't have one of their strong squads.

New Paltz was minus talented Soum are Aboubaccar, who twisted an ankle in pregame warmups. Konteh joined him on the sidelines in the second half when he pulled a muscle.

Chico Richards made his first New Paltz start following a year of ineligibility and looked good on the halfback line. The Hawks host Baruch Saturday.

Auburn Wary Of Tennessee

By United Press International
Quarterback Pat Sullivan is gone, so is flanker Terry Beasley. That in itself should be reason enough for Auburn to be a 14-point underdog to fourth-ranked Tennessee Saturday.

But there's more. Tennessee, primarily a defensive team, has come up with an explosive offense this year sparked by a pair of young quarterbacks named Condredge Holloway and Gary Valbuena.

Auburn assistant coach Sam Mitchell came back with this scouting report on Tennessee after watching the Vols blow out Penn State and Wake Forest the past two weeks:

"Holloway is one of the finest scramblers I've ever seen. He can run the sprint out option successfully on anyone. There's no way to contain him completely. He's got the poise needed to play quarterback. Valbuena, as his backup, is another fine quarterback."

In last year's heart-stopper at Knoxville, it was Sullivan who led Auburn down the field for a late score to win the game, 10-9. The year before, Auburn won in even a more convincing fashion, 36-23.

Bill Battle, coach of Tennessee, hasn't forgotten about those defeats. "This is one of the key games on our schedule," Battle said. "We go up against an opponent that has had the upper hand over us in the past few years. As always, Auburn is an excellent football team, well balanced and extremely tough."

While Tennessee has won quite easily in its first three games, the other victory coming over Georgia Tech, Auburn has had a hard time getting past Mississippi State (14-3) and Chattanooga (14-7) from among the toughest teams in the South.

Auburn's offense now consists mostly of a running game, headed by Harry Unger and Terry Henley. Dave Lyon, a defensive back last year, has moved in to replace Heisman winner Sullivan at quarterback. Kicker Gardner Jett is back too and he can put points on the board.

On defense, Auburn returns 16 lettermen. The starters will have to use all their experience to stop Tennessee.

In other games involving the nation's top-ranked teams: No. 1 Southern California is 21 over Michigan State, No. 2 Oklahoma is an off-the-board choice over Clemson, No. 3 Colorado is 20 over Oklahoma State, No. 5 Alabama is an off-the-board favorite against Vanderbilt, and No. 6 Ohio State is 21 over North Carolina.

Seventh-ranked Nebraska is an off-the-board pick over Minnesota, No. 8 Michigan is 19 over Tulane, No. 9 LSU is 17 over Wisconsin and 10th-ranked Notre Dame is 14 over Purdue.

In other games Washington is 17 over Illinois, Florida State is seven over Kansas, Texas is seven over Texas Tech, Penn State is 20 over Iowa, Stanford is 10 over West Virginia, and California is seven over Missouri.

Rangers Defeat New Neighbors, 6-4

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI)—The New York Rangers, powered by third period goals from rookies Steve Vickers and Larry Sacharuk and veteran Pete Stelmowski, broke a 3-3 tie and defeated the New York Islanders 6-4 in an exhibition hockey game Wednesday night.

It was the first hockey game played at the new Nassau Coliseum and drew 11,053 fans for the Islanders' first game.

Sacharuk of the Rangers and rookie Billy Harris of the Islanders each scored two goals.

Glenn Sather scored first for the Rangers and after Harris tied it, Walt Tkaczuk gave the Rangers a 2-1 lead at the end of the first period. Sacharuk's first goal made it 3-1. Germain Gagnon cut the lead to 3-2 at the end of the second period and Harris tied it 3-3 at the 18 second mark of the third period but Vickers, Stelmowski and Sacharuk all scored to make it 6-3 before Ed Westfall got the Islanders' final goal.

UCAL Pressure on Red Hook and Marlboro Teams

EYE CATCHER — Something on the practice field has the undivided attention of Coach Larry Karas (L-foreground) while assistant Tom Kizis studies the play book in recent Onteora High football practice.

By STEVE KANE

KINGSTON
Red Hook and Marlboro High Schools, UCAL football leaders at this early stage of the game, will have their work cut out for them Saturday. That's nothing new for the Dukes who have pulled upsets of sorts both times out this year, but for the Raiders it could be a day of reckoning.

There is no doubt that Red Hook's John Neilson is the UCAL's most confident coach, but then again he has more reasons than anyone else. Blessed with good personnel, experience and depth before the season started, the Raiders appear to have thoroughly jelled into a unit with a noticeable lack of weaknesses.

Who can blame the Red Hook coach for voicing championship hopes and talk of an undefeated season only two weeks into the season? His views, however, are not universally shared.

There was a note of pique in Larry Karas voice last Saturday when he said, "We're better than you (the press) think we are." His Onteora team had certainly given him plenty of substance for the remark by annihilating Walkill in every conceivable manner. Karas went on to call his ace running back Joe Phelan "unstoppable," and his team the equal of any other in the league.

In that OCS and Red Hook have both played the same teams this year, there is some basis for comparison. The Raiders, of course, are 2-0 while the Indians lost an 8-7 struggle to Pine Bush before blanking Walkill. That doesn't automatically determine the favorite. Despite being 1-1, Onteora held the Bushmen and the Panthers to less yards than the Raiders did. They also gave up only eight points while the Red Hook team surrendered 22 in the two contests.

Powerful Offense

Offense is all in the Raiders' favor though, with the phenomenal passing statistics of junior Matt King topping the list. King has thrown 23 times, completing 16 for a 69.9 percent and connecting for four touchdowns.

For the third consecutive week, Red Hook will go into a game the favorite. The home crowd and the statistics assure that much. To make it stand up, the Raiders will have to remember that Onteora is destined for better things than a .500 season this year.

Old Rivals

All the books go out the window when Army and Navy kick together. Likewise with Marlboro and Highland. If the Dukes' new coach Art Smith isn't aware of that you can bet

Lem Atkins is, and he's just the man to stomp on anyone's thin ice.

The surprise of the league so far, Marlboro is second in offense only to Red Hook, but they haven't met a defense like the Big Blues. The Dukes can't help but feel a little lucky to be 2-0 after a bout with Liberty. Those factors will make Marlboro a very shaky pick indeed.

Streaks are on the line here both ways. Highland's is 17 games without a loss while Marlboro has won seven straight. Add to all this a comfortable position in the standings for the winner, and you come with a lot of guaranteed bruises.

Another game of meaningless records will take place in Stone Ridge where winless Liberty takes on 1-0-1 Rondout. For the first time this season Mickey Millon's Ganders will be the smaller team on the field.

Million has no illusions about the Indians 0-2 slate:

"They're going to be tough. They're bigger than we are, and that offense that they've played for years is mighty hard to stop."

One of the reasons the Rondout coach isn't more confident about the upcoming battle is the disappointing performance of his own team thus far. The Ganders have had problems getting on the scoreboard.

"Most of the difficulty has been in our blocking mistakes," he said. "Our backs have been doing a good job, but they haven't been able to get loose."

As for defense, Rondout has been the best around so far, but New Paltz and Highland were not exactly stiff challenges to that department. Liberty will be, on the other hand, and the opportunity to get the wraps off Sullivan County team knows if they have to wait another week need it later on.

for victory, it will be too late.

The rest of the schedule has Walkill at Pine Bush and New Paltz at Ellenville. The Panthers are their own worst enemy at this point and will have to get up somehow to play the Bushmen even. Steady Trippy Thompson will lead the Bushmen's ground game against what has been the most atrocious defense in the league. After the defeat in Boiceville, Walkill coach Jerry Trezza vowed to shore up his front wall at any cost. Whether he succeeded will be evident soon enough.

Ellenville looks to get back in the thick of things at the Huges' expense. There seems to be no reason why they shouldn't, and the schedule for the next few weeks seems to favor their return to prominence. The Elites have a golden be, on the other hand, and the opportunity to get the wraps off Sullivan County team knows if they have to wait another week need it later on.

Ulster Booters Rally to Nip Orange

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

MORGAN HILL
It is possible that Ulster County Community College's undefeated soccer team may have won the war in the first battle in the Mid-Hudson Conference Soccer League here Wednesday.

Coach George Vizvary's Senators subdued a tough, physical Orange County Community squad, 3-2, on a goal by Frank Romano with five minutes left to play after Ulster had twice come from behind to tie the score.

"I'm pleased that we met the challenge," said Vizvary, who regards Orange, Rockland and Westchester as the main threats to Ulster's title aspirations.

It was a tough, physical contest in which Coach Vizvary's dire pre-game predictions were justified.

"I warned our players that Orange would try everything in the book to make us lose our cool," said Vizvary. "There was a lot of contact, rough play and Orange did succeed in getting two of our best players ejected from the game."

The two were Frank Goglia, who was banished in the first 10 minutes of play, and Carl McDonald, the rugged fullback, who exited midway in the second half. The Colts also had one player tossed out of the game.

Outshot 36-8 from the field, the inspired Colts nevertheless twice forced the senators to come from behind and Romano's winning goal marked the only time UCCCL led in the long, bruising afternoon.

Tim Young, Orange's outside left, slipped a goal past the prostrate form of Ulster goalie Mark Charpentier late in the first half (40:15) to give the visitors a 1-0 lead at the half.

Byron Cordero's boomers 6-49 into the second half tied the score at 1-1. One of the most controversial plays of the game followed after three minutes later when McDonald was ejected for unsportsmanlike conduct after a collision with an OCCC defender.

Ironically, it was the combined shouting and ranting of the Orange players that forced the official to award Orange a penalty kick and John McSouris capitalized to put Orange ahead 2-1.

Gerry Lee-Hing's goal at 1 minute tied it 2-2 and it stayed that way until Romano hit from the left side with the clincher.

Ulster won the statistical battle margin by wide 36-8 shots.

WAPPINGERS FALLS

Exciting young forward Johnny Robinson scored three goals Wednesday to lead Kingston High School to a 4-1 Dutchess County Scholastic League soccer victory over Roy C. Ketcham High.

The win maintained Kingston's perfect record in the league. The Maroons are 3-0.

Elsewhere in the DCSL Wednesday, Oakwood blanked Saugerties, 2-0; Poughkeepsie shutout Roosevelt, 5-0; Arlington defeated Webutuck, 3-0; and Spackenkill blasted John Jay, 6-1.

Robinson didn't score Kingston's first goal but he had a major hand in it as he dribbled up the middle and fed his inside left Bob Graves who booted it home past Ketcham goalie Bob Walsh. The goal came at 9:10 of the first quarter.

"It was as pretty a play as you'll ever want to see," said KHS Coach John Hunter.

The Maroons made it 2-0 at 15:07 of the third frame when Charlie Barton sent Robinson in all alone on Walsh with a fine lead pass. Johnny was on the spot and didn't miss.

Ketcham, perhaps taking advantage of a momentary Kingston letdown, got on the board a minute later when at 16:03 Tom Ostertag split the defense to score.

But Kingston knocked one in quickly after the start of the fourth period. This time it was Mike Provenzano who sent a pass which gave Robinson a clear shot at the net and again the opportunity wasn't wasted. The time was 2:06.

Robinson's third goal was set up by Graves and it was another beauty. The clock read 13:35 when the ball hit the twines.

"We looked real good," observed Hunter. "The team has come a long way. They're thinking well. We don't always execute, but at least they know what to do."

Hunter had heaps of praise for his fullback line, which he calls the best in the league, and especially noted the play of John Oberlander.

The Maroons have a date with Roosevelt on Friday, a key tuneup for their game with powerful Poughkeepsie on Monday. Hunter plans to use the Roosevelt clash to get as many players in the game as he can in order to establish some depth.

So far he's pleased: "We're coming, he said.

Fringe Players Fret

BETTENDORF, Iowa (AP)

—Pro golf's long season is winding down. Many of the game's stars are on extended breaks. Some are through for the season. Others are playing abroad.

But for a nervous handful of golfers, the season is entering its most important phase.

They're the players fighting for a spot among the top 60 money winners for the year, the list that determines the exempt players for next year.

"Being an exempt player is the name of the game out here," said Rookie Allen Miller before teeing off today in the first round of the $100,000 Quad Cities Open, the 39th consecutive weekly tournament this year.

"If you get that exemption you can kind of sort your life out a little, play when you want to and take time off when you want to," said Lanny Wadkins, another rookie, who has clinched his exemption for 1973. He had to qualify to get in this event, however.

"If you have it, you can look at the schedule and set up your season," he said. "If you don't have it, you never know what you're going to have to do."

Exempt players can enter any regular tour event they want and be assured of a spot in the field. Non-exempt players must survive the rigors of the Monday qualifying rounds to gain their place in each exempt spots are veterans Ken Still, Bob Goalby, Art Wall, Charles Sifford and Dan Sikes. Also in strong contention are Canadian George Knudson, Bob Smith, Mike Hill, George Johnson, Dave Eichelberger, Gibby Gilbert and Larry Ziegler, along with rookie Len Thompson.

Tom Shaw and Dale Douglass, both exempt this year, are faced with the need to double their earnings in the remainder of the season.

With this tournament, which runs through Sunday on the 6,501-yard, par 71 Crow Valley Golf Club course, there are only six more events this season.

Your Horoscope

Friday, September 29

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have little chance now to get out and get much done, but you are able to tackle those problems of a basic nature that need your undivided attention successfully, even though you do not feel you are getting much done. There is now a tendency to nag at mate or anyone around who is close to you, but adverse results would follow, so avoid criticizing.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Do your utmost to have more harmony with those who dwell with you and you can do much better on your job, in business, etc., as a result. Don't take any risks where your present security is concerned. Don't invest unwisely.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Be careful not to take out on others whatever is your own fault, or you get into real trouble, lose valuable allies.

Buy the supplies you need, but count the cost well. Remain calm and poised.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Get good advice from experts where monetary matters are concerned so you do not make any serious errors. That usual adviser is not dependable right now, so avoid. Use your own hunches, also.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): You are feeling cranky today, so be sure to relax and think clearly before you come to any important decisions or do vital work. Don't attend that social affair where one you do not like will be. Steer clear of trouble.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Although you may be right about some situation, don't voice any comments right now, or you get into trouble with others. Study that important data and become better informed. Do not waste time with persons who bore you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): You had better handle own affairs yourself since others are so busy with their own worries they could do you no good. Don't give advice to others unless asked for it, and then most wisely, cautiously. Avoid arguments.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Don't take chances with your good name — follow every rule and regulation that applies to you. Steer clear of a higher-up who is looking for someone on whom to vent spleen. Don't let it be you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): If you leave present set-up for something new and untried, you could get into a peck of trouble, so show that you are wise, stable. Get the information that will be helpful in performing your regular work more efficiently.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): That intuitive prompting you have is not good, so do not follow it or you get into a good deal of trouble. Show that you have self-control and follow orthodox methods. Avoid one who makes you feel uncomfortable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Don't get impatient if an associate who can help you with some project has big troubles and cannot do so at this time. Try to be the help yourself, and later all is fine for you. Discuss important affairs with associates.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You had better delve right into all that work ahead of you without expecting much help from others and it goes off nicely. Rest during spare time so you improve condition of your nerves. Eat lightly.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You had better find out more about the new kind of amusements you are tempted to jump into now, or you might wish you had never done so. This could be either monetarily or otherwise. Get your bills paid early.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who has fine talents for whatever careers are best suited for dealing with the public in general, serving them en masse, whether with utilities or whatever has to do with the humanities. Teach your offspring early to be objective instead of taking everything so personally, thinking others have little better to do than to criticize him or her. Then the chart here becomes a most successful one.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

CHANGED GIRL: (Q) When Kim and I were in grade school she was heavy—almost fat. She was dull too. I didn't even look at her.

We are juniors in high school now. She has lost a lot of weight and her personality is great.

I have been talking to her a good bit because I really like her. I've found out something too. Her boy friend broke up with her in the summer. You know what she told me when I told her I sort of liked her? She said no matter what happens with any other boy she will like the one who broke up with her for years to come.

Where do you think that leaves me?—Unwanted in Wisconsin.

(A.) Kim is still tender from being abandoned. An experience like that makes a girl tender.

She hasn't yet been able to forget the boy. But she will forget, and it won't take years. She can talk about it now, so it may be soon.

When she gets over it she will turn to some boy. It could be you. After a few more talks with her, ask her for a date and see if it is you.

TAUNTED: (Q.) I hate my sister. She has a big mouth. It is never closed. She used it to start arguments with me. She keeps reminding me that she is just 15 and has a boy friend and I am 17 and don't.

My parents don't help me much because she keeps after me until I lose my temper and then it looks like I started it. Please help me. I've had all I can take.—Battered Big Sister in New York

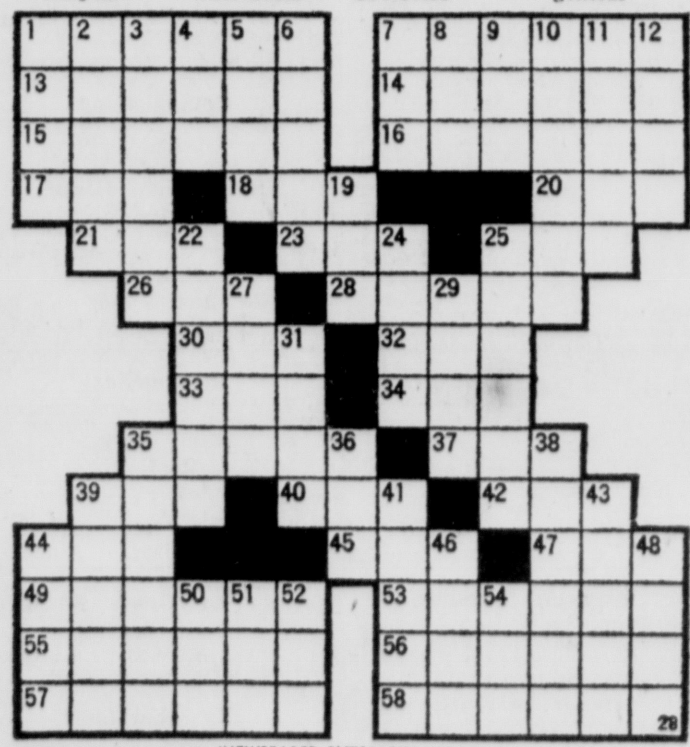

(A.) You need to have a family meeting for a calm discussion of the differences between you and your sister. You should state your complaints and she should state hers. Then everyone should make suggestions about the best way to quiet thing down. In your talking, do not try to hide the fact that your no-boy friend status has a big part in the troubles. This will help your parents to see how serious it is.

Just the airing of your problems will help, but also try hard to agree on a set of rules that both of you can follow.

PEKING MEETING — Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka (R) talks with Chinese Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung as the two met for an hour at Mao's residence in Peking, China. Mao reportedly joked with Tanaka and asked if the fighting between the two countries was over. Tanaka responded affirmatively and told Mao his talks with Premier Chou En-lai were going smoothly. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Mao, Tanaka... Friendly Talks

PEKING (AP) — Mao Tse-tung has given the Chinese Japanese summit his official public blessing by meeting with Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka.

The Chinese Communist party leader received Tanaka Wednesday night in the private residence where he met President Nixon in February. They talked for an hour and the session was described as "very friendly" and cordial.

It was Mao's first encounter with a Japanese prime minister in more than half a century as a revolutionary leader.

The gesture, coming midway in Tanaka's meetings with Premier Chou En-lai, was a tipoff that the two men are moving toward agreement on establishing diplomatic relations and working out a series of pacts which will formalize their new ties.

A fourth summit was to be held today, presumably to smooth over the rough spots in the communication their two foreign ministers and aides are putting together.

As party chief, Mao is the most powerful man in China. Chou is his second in command.

Official color photographs showed Mao ruddy-faced and in apparent robust health as he shook hands with Tanaka.

Dressed in a gray civilian tunic, Mao remarked humorously that he hoped the "fighting" with Chou was over. And he observed that once people have fought they become more friendly.

Meanwhile, reports from Peking and Tokyo mentioned a Communist Chinese official born in Tokyo and a Japanese diplomat who once lived in China as candidates to be the first ambassadors to be exchanged by China and Japan.

The reports said the two nations probably will announce the normalization of diplomatic relations before Saturday and that China and Japan will exchange envoys within six months.

Mentioned for the ambassadorial appointments were China's Liao Cheng-chih, president of the China-Japan Friendship Association, and Heishiro Ogawa, director of the Japanese Foreign Ministry's Foreign Service Training Institute.

Liao, 64, is a close associate of Chou and since Tanaka's arrival in Peking Monday he has been identified as adviser to the Chinese Foreign Ministry. Ogawa, 52, joined the Japanese Foreign Ministry in 1938 and served in China for many

New Security Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — People over 65 would be able to work and earn $3,000 a year before being denied any Social Security retirement benefits under a proposal adopted by a Senate vote of 75-6 Wednesday.

Under the present law, elderly workers lose $1 in Social Security for every $2 earned above $1,680. They collect no benefits if their earnings are over $2,680.

The proposal raises the earnings limitation to $3,000. The House voted to raise it to $2,000.

A compromise will have to be shaped by House-Senate conferees.

They have always taken the view that Social Security is primarily designed to help the elderly who have no other earnings—not those who work beyond age 65.

The proposal would add $1.7 billion to the cost of the Social Security program. Opponents argue that money could be better spent in raising benefit levels for those who must subsist on their Social Security checks.

But proponents argue that people who pay Social Security taxes are entitled to a pension at age 65 even if they continue working.

Unauthorized Bombing Probe Two Navy Fliers Set to Testify

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators investigating the unauthorized Air Force bombing of North Vietnam were scheduled to hear from two Navy fliers today amid allegations that the Navy also may have violated rules of engagement in bomb sorties from Tonkin Gulf carriers.

Scheduled to testify before the Senate Armed Services Committee were William Groepper, a former Navy lieutenant and pilot, and Navy Lt. William Moore Jr., a pilot.

Committee Chairman Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., declined to elaborate Wednesday on what path the questioning of the pair would follow.

But he told newsmen: "Two days ago, I thought I wouldn't be here talking about going off on another line... I have received direct allegations that there have been some violations of the rules of engagement by the Navy."

The committee probe was spurred by the disclosure that Air Force personnel falsified bombing reports last winter and spring to show U.S. planes had been fired on when they had not been. Gen. John Lavelle, commander of Air Force personnel in Southeast Asia, was relieved of command as a result. U.S. policy at the time forbade bombings above the demilitarized zone unless U.S. planes were fired on or tracked by missile-control radar.

Meanwhile, Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., who is not a member of the committee, released a letter on the allegations against the Navy.

Case said the letter, received last March, was written by a Navy lieutenant junior grade aboard the Hancock, an attack carrier. Case would not disclose the officer's name.

The officer said that at the time of Lavelle's raids, the Navy was using reconnaissance aircraft as bait, an excuse for bombing.

At first, Case said the lieutenant wrote, Navy reconnaissance F8 Crusader jets were accompanied by A4 Skyhawk bombers which would attack only if there was ground fire. The emphasis was on photos, he said.

Then, Case said he wrote, "The picture is now changed considerably. The operation is called Blue Tree and is ostensibly the same setup. However, the concentration in the briefing (before the mission) is on the strikes (bombing). The reconnaissance pilot sits in the back of the room, hardly noticed."

The Skyhawks formerly protected the Crusader, the lieutenant said. "Now, however, the Crusader is giving the Skyhawk protection not from the SAMs (surface-to-air missiles) but from the press."

Case said he and Sen. Stuart

Laird to discuss the letter April 16.

She came from a nice quiet town to find something stronger than marijuana.

A lot of small towns think they don't have any drug problems. Because their drug problems move away. And die someplace else.

The cancer of drug addiction has spread throughout the country and we're not going to wipe it out overnight.
